In War On Hijackers

Some Airlines Put On Guards, Committee Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, disclosed armed guards are riding some flights operating in the United States.

"It's probably just as well not to say which ones," Tipton told the Senate aviation subcommittee Friday.

The subcommittee held hearings on legislation to make airplane hijacking a federal crime punishable by life in prison. Whether this would be enough to deter hijackers prompted discussion of the possibility of armed guards.

Two senators said such action might be necessary — at least on flights within range of Fidel Castro's Cuba.

"This might be 'the best insurance we could buy,'" said Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., chairman of the subcommittee. Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., author of the proposed legislation, agreed with Monroney that "it probably would be the most constructive thing we could do."

The hijackers who took over a Boeing 707 Thursday said they wanted to force the pilot to fly into Cuba.

On July 24 an Electra plane was hijacked after take-off from Miami, Fla., and flown to Cuba. The passengers and crew were returned, but the plane was held.

On May 1 a twin-engine Convair was hijacked between Miami and Key West, Fla., and flown to Cuba. It was later allowed to return to the United States.

After Thursday's hijacking over El Paso, Tex., the Federal Aviation Agency authorized the airlines to arm crew members who had received training in the use of firearms and were proficient in handling them.

Tipton said the airlines are concerned about "the possibility of gunplay." Concern also was expressed by Herbert J. Miller Jr., assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division.

Monroney said, however, that he is "not too concerned" about a bullet ripping a hole in the pressurized cabins of high-flying airliners. He said that planes already are equipped with oxygen masks that automatically fall into the laps of passengers if necessary.

The Kennedy administration gave its backing to the proposed hijacking legislation as a means of meeting the menace of "air drunks, flying fools, and spies in the sky."

The subcommittee called a closed-door session for Monday to act on the proposed legislation. Also under it, assaulting or threatening crew members would be made federal offenses. So would murder, robbery and other crimes committed aboard civil aircraft while in flight. And, anyone carrying a concealed weapon aboard a plane would be subject to a $1,000 fine.

East Berlin May Be At Revolt Stage

Intelligence Points To Growing Hatred Of Soviet Regime

PARIS (AP)—The Western foreign ministers today opened a conference on the critical Berlin situation, determined to resist Soviet threats but willing to negotiate.

Representatives of the United States, Britain and France met for the opening session at the French Foreign Ministry. The West German minister will join the talks later in the day.

The start of the three-day conference coincided with intelligence reports of mounting anti-Communist unrest in Red-ruled East Germany.

The theory was gaining ground in Western circles that Soviet Premier Khrushchev, now that his threats to sign a peace treaty with East Germany have touched off the current crisis, is in some danger of running into trouble in the puppet state.

Intelligence reports indicate that the Communist rulers of East Germany are unable to contain the growing anti-Soviet feeling there. The situation is even being compared with 1953 when the East Germans revolted briefly against the Red regime.

A revolt in East Germany would make the Berlin situation even more explosive than it now is. It would confront the Western powers with the problem of what to do should West German citizens seek to cross the frontier to aid their kinsmen in the East.

That is just one of the reasons, informants said, why the Western powers would be willing to negotiate with the Soviet Union if a way can be found for doing so devoid of any threats.

East-West talks, either at the foreign ministers or the summit level, would provide a face-saving out for Khrushchev.

The Western ministers — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Britain's Lord Home, Maurice Couve de Murville of France and West Germany's Heinrich von Brentano — plan to hammer at a common course of diplomatic, political, and military action.

It is designed to convince Khrushchev the West will defy any Communist move against the 2.2 million West Berliners isolated 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain. But all signs indicate negotiations were being considered on both sides.

On his arrival Friday Rusk made it clear the West would talk with the Soviet Union if Moscow refrains from saber-rattling.

Soviet notes issued to the three Western powers declared that Khrushchev also was leaning toward negotiation but unwilling to back down on the threat to sign a treaty with East Germany and turn over to East Germany the control of Allied access routes to Berlin.

Prime Minister Harold MacMillan said Friday night in London that the West can never abandon West Berlin but must be ready to talk with the Russians on the issue.

Water Cut-Off Slated For East End District

Water service for approximately 30 homes in the Oakland district of East End will be turned off three to four hours Monday morning while a crew taps into a line to install a new fire hydrant.

The water department said the turn-off will affect Minnesota Ave., Park Ave., also known as Hanley St., Alpha St. and Alpha St. Ext. and Oakland Ave. on the west side of Pennsylvania Ave. The cut-off will be made at 8 a.m. The new hydrant will be installed at Minnesota and Park Aves.

CROSSOVER STEEL'S UP. Huge girders weighing hundreds of tons have been put in place for the crossover of the freeway under construction in West End and cars in the lanes of the W. 8th St. super-road beneath provide a comparison to indicate the immense size of the structure. Next step in this phase of the project, which ultimately will cost about $6 million, will be installation of reinforcing steel and pouring of concrete for flooring for the long span. City Hospital can be seen on the plateau at right overlooking the crossover. Chapin & Chapin, Inc., of Norwalk and Baker & Hickey, Inc., of Columbus hold a joint contract totaling $3,505,777 for the freeway. The remainder went for acquisition of right-of-way and planning.

Poison Smog Covers Town In Fire, Blast

Between 50 To 75 Are Hospitalized In Wake Of Explosion

INMAN, S.C. (AP)—Complaints of nausea, dizziness and abdominal pains sent 50 to 75 persons to a hospital for examinations Friday in the wake of a chemical plant fire and explosion that spread poisonous smog over part of this small town.

At least six persons were hospitalized at Spartanburg, about 15 miles away, where an old wing of the General Hospital was reopened to take care of the patients. None was believed in serious condition. But examinations were expected to continue.

On the south side of Inman today, scrub buckets sloshed over with sudsy water, and garbage cans were piled with contaminated food as 30 to 40 families cleaned up the homes they had evacuated Friday.

The deadly cloud broke up and drifted out of the area Friday after clinging close to the ground overnight and most of the day. Civil defense authorities had ordered the partial evacuation after being warned of possible deadly effect of the fumes.

Sprinklings of gray ash from the Columbia Chemical Co. plant fire dotted lawns and house-tops. Residents were warned to wash all exposed clothing and food and destroy food that could not be washed.

The plant, located away from the main part of Inman, was destroyed by fire and a series of explosions that ended early Friday. The smog cloud contained fumes from several deadly insecticides. The fire started when a mixture of methyl parathion and DDT exploded.

Cooler Due Sunday After Storms Tonight

The East Liverpool area can expect cooler weather Sunday after widely scattered thunderstorms tonight.

The Ohio weatherman said the mercury will range between 73 and 85 today with a low of 58 to 66 tonight.

The downtown had a low of 64 this morning. The Stratton Dam reported a high of 84 Friday afternoon and an overnight low of 67.

Secret Hook-In Startles People

Underground In Algiers Rips De Gaulle By Radio

ALGIERS (AP) — Underground right-wing extremists today hooked into the cable of Radio Algiers on a midday news broadcast and launched a violent attack on French President Charles de Gaulle.

The startling broadcast, which came into the sets of listeners here led many to believe that the extremists had seized the station itself. But they made no appearance.

Officials said the secret hook-in was done in such a manner as to throw two of the regular transmitters temporarily off the air, and permitting the extremists to give the impression they were talking from the radio station building itself.

The broadcast, backgrounded with military marches, continued for about half an hour and ceased abruptly.

Official French sources said Algiers was quiet. But Europeans who heard the broadcast in their homes were excited, thinking another uprising was at hand.

The Rightist's got the same idea. The broadcast broke into a regular news broadcast. The speaker said he was broadcasting from Radio Algiers.

In the name of Gen. Paul Gardy, a fugitive army officer, the broadcast assailed De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria. It praised the organization of a secret army by the European settlers who want to keep Algeria a part of France.

A retired general, Gardy, aided by 60 paratroopers, took over control of Oran in western Algeria last April after other right-wing military leaders had seized control of Algiers.

A special military tribunal in Paris sentenced Gardy to death in absentia on July 11.

Sentenced to death at the same time were two other principal leaders, Gen. Raoul Salan, former supreme military commander in Algeria, and Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, a former air force chief.

All three were reported in hiding in Algeria at the time of the sentencing. They are believed leading a right-wing underground movement known as the Secret Army Organization, which has sought to spread terror with plastic bombs.

The speaker who read the statement in the name of Gardy kept repeating slogans, then urged residents of Algiers to decorate their homes with flags and banners.

He ended with the warning, "The OAS strikes whom it wishes, where it wishes and when it wishes."

DiSalle Plans Recalling Of Legislature

Special Session On Capital Needs Due In September

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legislature will be called back for a special session after Labor Day to act on a capital improvements bill, says Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

The governor told newsmen Friday he would not set a date for an extraordinary session until Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, recovers sufficiently from a minor operation.

Mechem underwent surgery in University Hospital here Thursday. Aides said he might leave the hospital within two weeks with the prospect of full recovery in a month.

DiSalle, saying he will visit Mechem in the hospital to discuss a special session, added, "I will not call one as long as Senator Mechem is incapacitated."

"I doubt that he will be available until after the first of September. He is coming along well but it looks like he will be out of circulation about a month."

"We almost have to call a special session after Senator Mechem gets out of the hospital."

The governor said capital improvement funds should be provided, for projects under contract, before the Nov. 14 financial session set by the legislature.

Majority Republicans set that date to reconsider their defeat of a $45.5 million capital improvements measure during the windup of the regular session last Tuesday.

They also planned to take up DiSalle's veto of a billion-dollar appropriation to run the state for the second year of the biennium.

The legislature can consider only the subjects specified by the governor in a special session call. And DiSalle said he will ask the lawmakers to deal only with capital improvements.

He said he planned to keep construction projects going and get equipment for those already completed. To do this, he said, he will tap nearly $29 million in funds set aside for projects but unspent in the last fiscal year.

The governor said he will act under a provision in the general appropriation law that reappropriates unspent money. But he pointed out that so-called new money could not be tapped without a capital improvements act.

Boy, 7, Hurt As Cycle Hits Moving Auto

Both Autoists Cited In 2nd Mishap; Hearings Monday

A 7-year-old North Side boy was injured Friday night at 8:50 when his bicycle collided with an auto on St. Clair Ave. at Garner Ave. and two young drivers were cited after another mishap last night at Armstrong Ln. and Park Way.

James Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Carter, 608 Garner Ave., suffered a wound and contusion of the right eye and cheek and a laceration of the eye in the mishap that involved his bicycle and a 1960 two-door sedan operated by George Steele, 68, of 3292 St. Clair Ave. He was released after treatment at City Hospital.

Steele told police he was driving south on St. Clair Ave. when the boy's bicycle, approaching from his left, struck the side of his car. The boy told police he attempted to halt, but his foot slipped off the bicycle pedal. The left front headlight of Steele's car was damaged, officers said.

Citations were issued to both drivers after the collision at Armstrong Ln. and Park Way.

They are Robert W. Beatty, 20, of Forsyth Pl., who was driving a 1960 two-door sedan, and Jerald Ed Cochran, 21, of 212 McKee St., operator of a 1950 four-door sedan.

Beatty was cited for failure to halt for a stop sign and Cochran was accused of driving left of center. Because Municipal Court is closed on Saturday, they are expected to be given hearings Monday morning.

Beatty was driving east on Armstrong Ln. and Cochran was moving north on Park Way and turning west onto Armstrong Ln., police said. Beatty said he was preparing to halt for the stop sign when Cochran rounded the curve from Park Way onto Armstrong Ln. and hit the left front of his car. Cochran told police he was turning onto Armstrong Ln. when Beatty failed to halt for the stop sign.

Walker Asks Second Term In State Post

Adena Man To Run For Area's Seat On Ohio School Board

Robert W. Walker of Adena in Jefferson County filed today with the Columbiana County Election Board to seek a new term at the Nov. 7 general election as the member of the State Board of Education from the five-county 18th Congressional District.

Walker has been a member of the board since it first was established four years ago. The members are elected on a non-partisan basis without party labels. The board is comprised of one member from each of the 23 congressional districts in Ohio.

Walker's district is comprised of Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont, Carroll and Harrison Counties. He is the first to enter. Candidates in the 18th District file with the Columbiana County board because it administers election affairs as the most populous of the five counties.

The Columbiana County board also will collect the election returns from the other four counties and submit a combined report to the secretary of state's office at Columbus.

Nine more new candidates were listed overnight by the Election Board, including one man seeking re-election to two posts in two separate subdivisions.

The "double" candidacy was entered by Arnold Green of Rogers, seeking new terms both as Rogers village treasurer and as a member of the Board of Education of the Beaver Local School district.

Simon C. Hall of Dixonville filed for a new term as Liverpool Township clerk. Liverpool is the only township in Columbiana County that will name a clerk this fall.

Three other school board candidates filed. Ralph J. Starbuck entered for a seat on the Salem City board. Arthur C. Pfund filed for the board in the Columbiana Exempted Village District and Paul W. Conrad entered for the board in the Leetonia Exempted Village District.

Arthur F. Knight and Norman Huffman filed for trustee posts in Unity Township. Charles H. Butler entered for Middleton Township trustee. Francis Brickner entered for Madison Township trustee.

Meanwhile, Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, issued a reminder that no election will be held in November for the unexpired term of Unity Township.

Liked To 'Hold Babies Tight'

'Sitter' To Face Charges In Deaths Of 3 Children

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP)—A baby sitter described by acquaintances as one who craved love and affection was held today by police, who said she admitted that three small children she tended had died in her arms.

No suspicion had been attached to Miss Mary Kathryn Madigan, 29, of Dubuque, until the county medical examiner determined that Gail Nemmers, 3, who had been left in her care Thursday night, died of suffocation.

Then Police Capt. Byrne O'Brien began looking into the death of another child of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nemmers, Karen, 22 months, July 12, and the death of Michael Fitzpatrick, 4 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fitzpatrick, July 14.

Miss Madigan, who had acted as baby sitter for both of these families, told police after her arrest and after her recovery from hysteria, that she liked to "hold babies tight."

"I was trying to give them love and affection," she said.

Dubuque County Atty. Robert Oeth said he planned to file some type of a homicide charge against Miss Madigan today.

Police Chief Percy Lucas said the woman had made three separate statements in which she related that:

The oldest Nemmers girl, Gail, was being held across her lap and when the child cried she held her hand over it's mouth, "quite a bit."

She held Karen Nemmers and the Fitzpatrick boy with their mouths close to her neck and Lucas quoted her as saying: "They seemed to gasp for air, and their bodies went limp."

In each case she put the babies

Falling Tree Halts Power At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — A falling tree limb was blamed for Friday's massive power failure that left some two million persons without electricity in a 1,700-square-mile area.

Duration of the failure, worst in Cleveland's history, varied from only a few minutes in downtown Cleveland to nearly three hours in some outlying areas.

The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. reported more than 70 per cent of its service in 138 communities in Cuyahoga, Lake, Geauga and Ashtabula counties and a small fringe of Lorain County was affected by the power failure.

Through a link with the Ohio Edison Co.—a link which also was knocked out—the power blackout stretched as far west as Sandusky and crippled service in Lorain and Elyria, which also are in Ohio Edison territory.

The CEI reported that service

Grand Jury's Action Nears In Hijacking

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—An ex-convict and his wild-eyed son were lodged in jail here today awaiting a grand jury hearing Monday for hijacking a jet airliner and attempting a forced flight to Cuba.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge R. E. Thomason ordered a special grand jury convened to determine whether to indict Leon Bearden, 38, and his son, Cody, 16. Both are being held under $100,000 bond.

The pair pulled firearms on the crew of a Continental Airlines Boeing 707 and 65 other passengers Thursday, then ordered the pilot to fly the $5 million jet to Cuba.

A barrage of bullets from heavily armed officers at El Paso's International Airport shot out the landing gear tires so the plane could not take off.

A border patrolman, Leonard Gilman, 43, later slugged the elder Bearden, and FBI Agent Francis Crosby grabbed the boy, thus spoiling their plan.

They face charges of hijacking the plane and taking it across the New Mexico-Texas state line and with kidnapping those aboard. The plane was in flight from Los Angeles to Houston.

Gilman appeared Friday before the Senate aviation subcommittee considering bills to impose stiffer penalties for airborne crimes.

He said he feared Cody Bearden, 16, more than he did the father. He described young Bearden as a "cold, cool customer who did not smile once."

Congress has urged new action against Cuba and its dictator, Fidel Castro, although there was no firm indication that the Cubans knew anything about the hijacking plan.

New precautions for preventing future hijacking in the air were ordered by the Federal Aviation Agency. An order allowed plane crewmen to arm themselves — a move not approved by all airlines or crew spokesmen.

clerk, where a recent vacancy was filled by the trustees.

When Thomas W. Moore resigned as township clerk recently after many years' service, the trustees appointed Robert F. Smith to serve the entire unexpired term of a little over two years, O'Hanlon said.

In some cases of vacancies in public office, an interim appointee serves only until the next general election, when a successor is elected. But in the case of a township office, Section 503.24 of the Ohio Revised Code provides that the trustees will make the appointment for all of the unexpired term, O'Hanlon pointed out.

The next election of a Unity Township clerk will fall in 1963, when all townships except Liverpool will pick clerks.

Liverpool Township's clerk's term runs out in a different year because of the "divorce" of the city and the township in the mid-1940's, O'Hanlon explained. At the time of the separation of the two subdivisions, the incumbent clerk was a resident of the city and no longer eligible to serve. The township was required to elect a new clerk in an "off-year" and has continued to do so ever since.

O'Hanlon said he issued the reminder because the board has received many inquiries about a possible election for the unexpired term in Unity Township.

IRONDALE — Albert Ferry, McKinley Dallas and Ray Smith have filed as candidates for Village Council in the Nov. 7 election, according to the Jefferson County Board of Elections in Steubenville. C. P. Henderson filed for village clerk, the board said. Deadline for filing is Wednesday at 4 p. m.

4 To Get Hearing In Chester Fight

Four face hearings Monday at 8:30 p.m. before Acting Mayor Roy Cashdollar of Chester as a result of a fight at 12:15 a.m. today and in the outside the 500 Bar on Carolina Ave.

Arless Streets of East Liverpool posted a $15 bond on a charge of disturbing the peace, filed by Artie Bates of Lawrenceville. Bates also signed a complaint against Otto Jenkins of Virginia Ave., Chester, charging him with assault and battery.

Mrs. Pearl Bates of Lawrenceville signed a complaint against Jenkins for assault and battery. Jenkins signed complaints against Mrs. Bates and Artie Bates, charging both with assault and battery. Those from the Chester area were not required to post bonds. Patrolman Clarence Lennons made the arrests.

At a hearing this morning before Cashdollar, James R. Eberhart of Chester R.D. 1 pleaded guilty to a charge of driving left of center. He was fined $10 and costs. He was cited July 28 by Patrolman Lennons after an accident at the intersection of Route 30 and the Lawrenceville Rd.

Khrushchev To Give Address On Monday

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev will make a nation-wide radio and television address Monday, the news agency Tass said today.

The subject of his speech was not announced, but Khrushchev told visiting Italian Premier Fanfani Thursday that he planned to reply to President Kennedy's recent address on the Berlin situation.

He Lived In Flophouse, But Was A Wealthy Man

By JOE LEWIS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nobody knew Joe Morris was rich.

Morris, 90, a wispy little guy with one eye, made the same rounds day after day.

First, a stroll through tree-shaded Pershing Square. Then a few hours at the Public Library, then the downtown industrial section.

Headed back to his flophouse room, Joe would stop at a warehouse and wave to a friend.

"It's getting dark, and I'm going home just like you told me," Joe would tell Morrison McMullen, security guard for Lockheed Aircraft's storage facility at 2nd and Alameda Streets.

McMullen, 55, had been sharing lunches and conversations with Joe for half a dozen years. He also had been providing him with clothes and a few dollars for shaves and haircuts.

Friday he learned Joe had died, alone and unattended, in General Hospital on July 20—two days after he had been arrested for panhandling.

"I don't believe Joe was a panhandler," McMullen said. "Joe told me he'd rather starve than beg."

McMullen learned something else Friday: Joe left an estate estimated in excess of $50,000.

The only heir announced so far was Joe's niece, Jean Morris of Chicago. Other heirs, if any, will be announced after the will is admitted to probate.

No one knows how Joe got the money. The County Public Administrator's Office traced the fortune through a check of Joe's effects. They're still checking his assets, which they said include a large amount of General Motors stock and government bonds.

McMullen Friday told of his friendship for the old man.

Why was he attracted to Joe, an arthritic old man with failing sight in his one functioning eye? Said McMullen: "He never asked for anything. He didn't smoke, drink or swear."

"We'd talk for hours. Joe said he was born in Leavenworth, Kan., and I took Army basic training at Ft. Riley, Kan., so we'd talk about the old days in Kansas."

They also reminisced about the old-time fighters—John L. Sullivan, Gentleman Jim Corbett, Ad Wolgast, Jim Jeffries and Kid Levine.

"Joe could talk about anything," McMullen said.

Senate Republicans Rally To Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of Senate Republicans—admittedly a small minority of their party—rallied today to support of President Kennedy's Treasury-financed, long-term loan program for the development of struggling new nations.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said there will be enough Republican votes to put over the 5-year, $8.8-billion loan program.

The loan authority for the first year — $1,187,000,000 — is part of this year's $4,326,500,000 foreign aid bill on which debate opened yesterday.

The big fight will come first on a proposed amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to require the President to come back to Congress each year for appropriations to finance the fund. No votes are expected before Tuesday or Wednesday.

Cooper, a former ambassador to India, joined Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in asking Senate passage of the foreign aid bill.

He said that long-term financing is "an imperative condition toward making our foreign aid program truly effective."

He called the term "back-door financing" — which Byrd and many Republicans have used to describe the borrowing authority proposal — a "misnomer and a diversion in this debate on foreign aid."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., also announced his support of "the principle of some long-term borrowing authority in order to efficiently finance a meaningful development loan program."

Saltonstall, however, offered an amendment to give Congress a "veto" over all loans of $10 million or more. Cosponsored by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., it would require reports to Congress on all loans of that amount and give either Senate or House 30 days in which to disapprove any of them.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., it would require reports to Congress on all loans of that amount and give either Senate or House 30 days in which to disapprove any of them.

Richard Hazel, 24, of Columbus, "poor," George Stockhill, 18, of Kittanning, "serious," and Edward Truelove, 20, of Youngstown, "serious."

Mrs. Clay and Truelove are in Youngstown South Side Hospital. Stockhill is in Salem City Hospital and the others are in Salem Central Clinic.

The State Highway Patrol at Canfield said it has not been able to talk with any of the injured to learn how the accident occurred. The three men were in the same car but it has not been determined who was driving. It is believed Stockhill hitch-hiked a ride with Hazel and Truelove.

The patrol said Mrs. Peterson was driving the other car, with her two foster children and her mother as passengers. Both cars were demolished.

Toronto Man Hurt As Auto Rams Tree

A Toronto area motorist was injured when his car smashed into a tree near the intersection of Jefferson County Route 43 and State Route 43 about 2 a. m. today.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said Harold McConaughy, 33, of Toronto R. D. 1 lost control on a curve, went off the right side of the highway and hit the tree. The vehicle was demolished.

McConaughy was treated at St. John's Hospital at Steubenville for lacerations of the right arm and torn tendons.

State Calls Rink Public Nuisance

A request for a temporary injunction has been filed in Common Pleas court by the state to close the K. B. Skating Arena at Cannons Mills.

The Division of Factory and Building Inspection claims the building is a public nuisance because Kenneth A. and Nellie Burt of East Liverpool R.D. 1 didn't obtain the state's approval for an addition they built after July 1958.

The division claims that failure to obtain the permit is a violation and makes the building a public nuisance under law.

On May 23, the state gave the owners 30 days in which to submit plans and specifications but they failed to comply, the petition charges.

Hearing on the temporary injunction, prohibiting occupancy of the building, has been set for Wednesday, Aug. 16, at 10:30 a.m. in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon.

Dr. Donald McFarlane, county medical examiner, said there was no indication in the autopsies of the other two children that death was from other than natural causes. He said Karen Nemmers had a congenital heart ailment and the Fitzpatrick boy had virus pneumonia.

"These conditions could be aggravated by suffocation," Dr. McFarlane said.

Louis Fautsch, attorney for Miss Madigan, said her left arm is lame and injuries she suffered at birth partially closed an eye. Police were told she was born with a spastic paralysis.

The mother of the Fitzpatrick boy regarded Miss Madigan as a good sitter who "took excellent care of the children and did extra things around the house."

Cult Leader, 18 Others Jailed In Deserter Case

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Cult leader John R. Harrell, whose Christian Conservative Church colony was stormed to capture a Marine deserter, was in jail overnight, unable to post bond.

Eighteen of his followers were there, too. All were charged with harboring a deserter.

The Marine, Dion Davis, 18, slightly-built son of a Greenville, Pa., grocery chain manager, was to be turned over to the Marine Corps today.

Harrell once said his religious colony at nearby Louisville, Ill., had "supplies to hold out for weeks." But the armed defenders fired no shots in the predawn raid by police and federal agents Friday.

The FBI said only those who were armed or offered resistance were arrested.

Harrell, 38, his silvery hair almost to his shoulders, said at their arraignment in East St. Louis, Ill., that his mother, Natalie Harrell, 62, owned property worth $150,000, including the estate modeled after George Washington's Mount Vernon.

But U.S. Commissioner Elvira Fellner said deeds, title papers and tax receipts were required to arrange bond. Mrs. Harrell could produce none of these. Bond was set at $7,500 for Harrell, $2,000 each for three youths under 19, and $3,000 each for the rest.

The commissioner offered to release Harrell's 200-pound son, both.

Tod E. Harrell, 13, Friday night if the cult leader's mother would obtain a legal description of the property and swear that she owned it.

But the attorney asked that this be used to arrange bond for all 17, and the commissioner withdrew the offer.

The commissioner set the preliminary hearing for Aug. 14 in East St. Louis.

About 100 guns and 10,000 rounds of ammunition were seized in the raid on the rambling 100-acre estate. Harrell ordered his men not to fire, he said, because "we had no such instructions from the Lord."

The raid followed two days of unsuccessful efforts to talk Davis into returning to Camp Lejeune, N.C. He was declared a deserter May 29. Harrell said he granted Davis refuge after the Marine had told him tales of immorality, debauchery and atheism in the corps.

Harrell ruffles Louisville, a rural community of 900 about 90 miles east of St. Louis, by stalking out of the Methodist Church in 1959. Since then he has founded his own church—the Christian Conservative—and started a private anti-communism school on his estate.

The maximum penalty for harboring a deserter is three years imprisonment, a $2,000 fine or both.

back in their beds, but on Thursday night, after Gail Nemmers had stopped breathing, Miss Madigan telephoned the widowed mother with whom she lived, police said.

Dr. Donald McFarlane, county medical examiner, said there was no indication in the autopsies of the other two children that death was from other than natural causes. He said Karen Nemmers had a congenital heart ailment and the Fitzpatrick boy had virus pneumonia.

"These conditions could be aggravated by suffocation," Dr. McFarlane said.

Louis Fautsch, attorney for Miss Madigan, said her left arm is lame and injuries she suffered at birth partially closed an eye. Police were told she was born with a spastic paralysis.

The mother of the Fitzpatrick boy regarded Miss Madigan as a good sitter who "took excellent care of the children and did extra things around the house."

Group Meets; Girds Against Cuban Attack

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—The Latin American economic conference opens today with the major participants determined to beat back any Cuban attempt to wreck the meeting.

The United States and 20 other members of the Organization of American States are taking part in the conference to launch a massive aid and development program that could directly affect the lives of millions in Latin America for years to come.

The United States and Brazil, the two giants of the conference, have reached an agreement on the goals to be achieved, it was reliably learned.

Secretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon stopped off in Brazil on the way here and lined up Brazil's support at a private 90-minute meeting with President Janio Quadros.

Argentina, Chile, Uruguay and Peru were reported joining with the United States and Brazil in a united front to assure success of the conference.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro sent his economic czar, Ernesto Guevara, to represent Cuba at the conference. The fiery Guevara is expected to accuse the United States of meddling in Latin American affairs and otherwise try to torpedo the parley.

Major goals of the conference are:

1. Achievement over the next 10 years of an average annual rate of per capita growth for each Latin American country of at least 2.5 per cent.
2. A substantial rise in agricultural productivity.
3. Maintenance of reasonably stable price levels.
4. A more equitable distribution of wealth.

Another body was recovered immediately after the accident. A salvage squad raised the bus to the surface in the little boat harbor of Hergiswil village after two days of laborious work.

Gospel According To St. Nik

Those who have the time to read through the text of the socialist gospel according to Saint Nikita — the newest Communist manifesto — find this question waiting at the end. The question is in their minds, not the text.

What has been omitted that should have been included?

What is missing in Khrushchev's revised version of the Marxist-Engels-Lenin doctrine of a politically automated society?

The answer is as obvious as the omission of Stalin's name in the Khrushchev revision. The dictator who followed Lenin and preceded the shuffle that carried Khrushchev to the top job in the Kremlin has been elbowed out of the gallery of socialist heroes. And that is what has been left out of the Khrushchev version of socialist gospel.

He and his apostles regard socialism as the inevitable result of a mechanistic process whose outcome can be foretold by an absolute formula of economic determinism.

They can rant on interminably — and do — about the theory of socialism, but they never peep about its fallacy.

THE FALLACY is the simple fact human beings do not live by theory but by impulse. Russian socialists have been in each other's hair since they were nothing more than theorists, themselves. When they finally became administrators they set about the bloody job of carving up one another and are still engrossed in it. They never will finish, for the good and sufficient reason that absolutists never get rid of their last enemy or their last obstacle.

The world and the human beings who live in it weren't made to suit the specifications of absolutists.

When Stalin was preaching his gospel of socialism, it was one way. It was another way, briefly, when Malenkov was the giver of the faith. Now it's another way under Nikita Khrushchev, and one day he will join all previous dissenters in whatever limbo awaits human beings who believe absolutely in themselves and absolutely in nothing else.

No doctrine lends itself to formalizing like socialism. Marx saw the world of his time in black and white, as did Engels. But Marx never would recognize the world that exists today, because it isn't the world he was prescribing for. He would have nothing in common with socialism as practiced in modern Russia or modern England.

IT IS A safe prediction that Khrushchev would not be able to identify himself with socialism in another century. It will have accommodated itself to the nature of man, in the same way that capitalism has been made to accommodate itself to the nature of man. But capitalism does not pretend to be absolute.

It is not systems that mold men. It is men who mold systems. They use ideas that work and reject ideas that don't work. Human determination, not economic determinism, makes the difference.

Yet not a word is said in the long-winded text of Communist gospel according to Saint Nikita about the mind of man. Humanity is regarded as a lump of protoplasm that will react according to a theory based on economics.

That isn't the way humanity behaves. It is not as simple and predictable as the dogs of the famous Russian, Ivan Petrovich Pavlov, who invented brain-washing.

HUMAN REACTIONS are relative, not absolute. Sooner or later, a contrary-minded Communist, perhaps one named Mao, or Tito, balks and veers. Or one named Josef or Nikita claims he has become the sole trustee of the faith and it becomes necessary to shove false prophets into oblivion.

Under capitalism, which no one has tried to define since Adam Smith's time, you can't tell the players even with a program any more, which is turning out to be capitalism's saving grace. Nothing is stated absolutely. It all depends on how things work out in practice, and that all depends, in turn, on human nature.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

The Moscow View

By David Lawrence

PROPHETS and TEACHERS—1

St. Luke's faith manifested itself in his Gospel and the Acts. The "beloved physician" and friend of St. Paul wrote of women with a spirit "so tender it saw further than almost any save the Master himself into the soul of womanhood." He wrote of compassion for suffering humanity, of the universality of Christianity, and he revealed the "neighbor" whom we are to love as our fellow man in need, in the parable of the Good Samaritan.

Soviets Make Point In Turkey

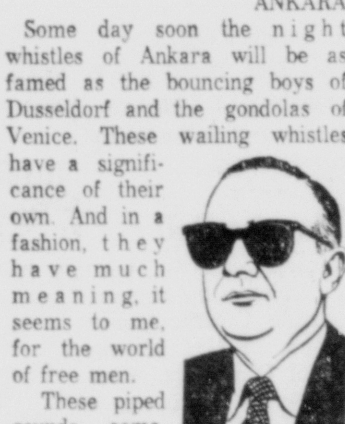

By Victor Riesel

such as playing the numbers, the stock market, visiting bookie joints and pulling the lever on "one-armed bandits". Then at night, if you have a well-lined pocket, have the right contact, you can really get in on the big stakes at the most notorious club east of the Mississippi. Right here in our own county, we have West Virginia's "Little Las Vegas".

"Of course, we have no reason to expect a reform in our county, when we continue to elect officials who are beholden to racketeers. Rackets become as big as our officials allow and our officials will protect the rackets as far as the citizens will allow.

"This tree of evil within our county is growing and spreading so fast that the only way to kill it will be to continue striking at the roots where the protection comes from."

The editorial speaks for itself.

ANKARA Some day soon the night whistles of Ankara will be as famed as the bouncing boys of Dusseldorf and the gondolas of Venice. These wailing whistles have a significance of their own. And in a fashion, they have much meaning, it seems to me, for the world of free men.

These piped sounds, sometimes eerie, sometimes like short dog barks, are the signals of the special night patrol to the police.

These night watchmen have no call-in boxes, no phones — for while there is modernity all about us there is no doubt that we are also in the western tip of still undeveloped Asia.

There is so little wiring, in fact, that to get a phone call through to the rest of the Near East or the Middle East you must first call London and talk via that route. Only now is a direct phone link being built.

THIS IS A LAND of many frustrations for the "new" Turkish people.

There are buildings with elevator shafts but no elevators. There are buildings in which the electric lights go off automatically after you turn it on to light a dark stairwell — the light being lit just long enough to allow you to run down the stairs.

There are elevators which take you up, but not down. There are days when electric power suddenly cuts off — and water supply as well.

All this angers the young Turks, the brilliant university students, the impatient men who want to modernize this land. For Turkey is extremely vital to the defense of Broadway, Market Street, Main Street and right on through to the Pacific Palisades.

Why should I be talking of whistles and frustrations at a time like this? Because the Russians are discussing them, that's why. It's the only chance the Soviets have to win some support in this land.

They, in their way, get word to the students to defy the martial law of the utterly democratic military regime of Gen. Gursel.

The Soviet propagandists win some sympathy over tea in the coffee houses when they say, "Just look at what we have done in the USSR in 40 years and look at how little industrialization, modernization and improvement of living standards there has been in Turkey in the same period."

This is the only argument which makes any impression on the students and the university people, who have so much influence in this land.

Turkey truly is our own frontier in an overwhelming fashion. I'm not permitted even to hint at what we and the Turkish military have set up here to observe the Russians.

THUS THE SOVIET propaganda — Chairman Khrushchev's personal hard sell — to impress the world with alleged Soviet accomplishments becomes one of its most potent weapons against us.

As CIA chief Allan Dulles put it recently:

"Khrushchev recognizes that the United States is the most highly developed economic power in the world. However he claims that with the Soviet's higher annual rate of growth they will catch up with us in the next 10 to 15 years.

"Such boasts are an exaggeration. But this does not prevent his peddling them on a worldwide basis. Nor do these boasts fail to impress the underdeveloped and nonindustrial nations who see the great strides which the Soviet has made over a few decades."

The Soviets never miss a trick selling these strides — though they are 30 to 40 years behind us.

FOR EXAMPLE, up in Kars along the Soviet frontier I was told by Muhlis Babaoglu, permanent undersecretary of the Turkish Home Office (sort of ministry of justice, security, and national police) that the Russians had recently pulled back their watch towers and barbed wire fencing some 20 kilometers.

When the regional Turkish governor went to see what had happened, he noted what appeared to be a fine, almost luxurious, small village. Then one of his soldiers pointed out that the Russian houses looked fine but they had no chimneys.

In other words they were fake, just fronts, such as the movie set makers erect. The Russians had wanted to impress the Turks.

The fact is that too many of us perpetuate the Russian legend of productive success. There is supposed to be a six per cent per annum growth inside Russia — twice ours. Actually the growth average over the past four decades has been 1.2 per cent a year.

IN FACT, there is evidence here that the Russians are in internal chaos. Their nonmilitary distributive system, has broken down so that millions of tons of food and vegetables rot before getting to the big cities.

In these big Soviet communities there is so little in the way of consumer goods — or even any nonmilitary industrial goods — that vast black markets exist. This has never before been reported in the U.S.

In Leningrad, for example, the vast black market, as in other cities is institutionalized. There it is called a "second hand goods market." But it is simply a huge open lot where stuff brought in by sailors and tourists is sold.

In Lvov, the black market is called the "Field of Cunning." Without hundreds of these "flea markets" the Russian people would live barren, subsistence lives.

Why don't we tell these stories? Why do we perpetuate the myth of Soviet superiority? Do we want to lose the young people of the underdeveloped world?

Shall the United States, a land which is the symbol of salesmanship, lose because we permit N. S. Khrushchev to become the world's supersalesman?

Odd Facts

A gifted, creative or artistic child, according to one psychological study, can be detected by these signs: (1) Strong curiosity about almost everything. (2) Marked interest in words and ideas. (3) Good vocabulary and a taste for reading. (4) A tendency to seek older companions and the company of adults. (5) Very important — a good sense of humor and a cheerful disposition.

Water dissolves almost everything with which it comes in contact, so that strictly pure water is never found. Rain water is the purest form, but even that has absorbed air and ammonia.

Russia May Revise Stand On Common Market

IN EUROPE

What does Russia think of the Common Market idea? What effect will Britain's decision to work closely with the continental countries have on Moscow?

What impact will it have on the satellite countries which are left isolated as they see their former associates in Europe moving toward a stronger and stronger economic position?

These questions are even more important today in Europe than the special problems that Britain faces with its Commonwealth associates, or the dilemma confronting Sweden and Finland, which dislike to become entangled in any kind of political union that might be resented by the Soviets. Neither country has joined NATO.

Is Moscow, however, irreconcilably opposed to the enlarged Common Market plan? While hostile propaganda against it continues over the air waves, the Russians have never pinpointed their objections except from the political viewpoint.

In fact, it is conceivable that in the long run the Soviets may find a united economic entity in the Western part of Europe easier to deal with than the present setup of two rival organizations.

For the moment, Moscow keeps hammering away that Britain, in joining the European economic community, is making a mistake and is diminishing its influence in Europe but these tactics are obviously designed to embarrass, if not discourage, the whole Common Market movement.

The Communists are well aware that the European Economic Community is destined to develop successfully, and hence it may well be that, when the new organization finally gets firmly established, the Moscow policy will be changed to one of friendliness, instead of hostility.

Indeed, there may come a time when the Soviets will be maneuvering to build up more trade for the satellite countries as well as for themselves.

The Soviets are well aware of the fact that a consolidated market in Western Europe comprising 300 million people means a huge industrial capacity and rapid progress in living standards, along with improvements in social conditions.

Despite all the Utopian promises in the new 20-year Communist party program, the fact remains that the peoples of East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the other satellite countries in Eastern Europe will be hearing every day of the realistic growth of the Western countries.

News like this travels across international boundaries despite censorship of the press and radio. In a political sense, therefore, the Russians have much to fear and, if they find they cannot really block the movement, they may in the long run try to associate themselves indirectly with it.

RUSSIA even gave permission to Finland within the last two years to join the European Free Trade Association — known as "The Seven" — as an associate member, and offered no objection to Sweden's action in becoming a full-fledged member.

Neither was any effort made by Moscow to stop Austria from joining. This does not mean that the Soviets acquiesce in everything "The Seven" have done. In fact, the Russians demanded of the organization that the so-called "most favored nation treatment" be granted on certain exports which are part of the Soviets' trade arrangements with all Western countries.

Britain and other countries objected. Only Finland paid heed to the Russian request.

The Russians are not likely, of course, to abandon right away their efforts to cause embarrassment. They are already trying to persuade Sweden to take only a limited participation in the enlarged Common Market plan.

Norway and Denmark will seek full membership, so it may be that Sweden will find it hard to satisfy the demands of Russia.

The Soviets, on the other hand, it is pointed out by some economists, have always respected strength, especially in the economic field and, if their propaganda tactics fail, they may suddenly decide to try to make a deal with the big Common Market operation.

THE MERGER of the two Common Markets appears to be the only development that promises to create a counterweight against Soviet dominance in Europe. Faced by this fact, Moscow may well try to come to terms with the group in order to get the heavy machinery and equipment, as well as consumer goods, it will need to carry out Soviet economic expansion plans.

Economic strength, to be sure, sooner or later spells political power. That's why, incidentally, the Scandinavian governments would like to see the political aspects soft pedaled at this time and only the economic factors stressed as the enlarged Common Market organization takes in new members and plans its future.

This is one of the main reasons for the conference of the prime ministers of Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

The fact is that, in the long run, if there is economic unity and economic prosperity, political strength will inevitably follow anyhow.

IT COULD BE that at some future time a sensible premier in Moscow will himself be applying for membership in the European Common Market.

He might discover that some of the objectives of the Communist 20-year plan would have more chance of attainment during an era when armament spending is curtailed, and political crises are not chronic, than under the dangerous conditions that prevail internationally today.

Whoops! Sorry!

By Truman Twill

This is one of those things a citizen wonders about while looking at the arithmetic on his pay check that tells him how much he would have earned if his great good government hadn't taken out a preliminary bite to satisfy its prior claim on his income:

When the latest astronaut almost didn't get out of his space capsule before it sank in three miles of Atlantic Ocean, there was a brief tussle between the sinking capsule and a hovering helicopter that had snagged the thing according to plan.

But the weight of the water-filled capsule was too much. The helicopter's overworked engines heated up. The pilot had no choice but to unsnag the capsule and let it sink. There went a couple more millions of taxpayer money, plus a load of records and data that hundreds of millions had been spent to compile.

Why?

Because people in the government who are in charge of spending our money for space exploration couldn't get together with people in the government who are in charge of running our navy. Specifically, there was lacking at the scene of the astronaut pickup an aircraft carrier large enough to carry helicopters large enough to snag space capsules and lift them out of the water before they had time to fill up and sink.

For the first astronaut venture, a carrier had been on the scene, with large-sized helicopters. But the second time, the great good government's Department of the Navy said it was too busy with other important matters to send a carrier. So they sent an outfit too small to do the job.

This is an insignificant, piddling thing, too unimportant to get steamed up over. But I get steamed up about it anyway, because the one thing about the great good government I never have been able to get through my head is its conception of itself as a collection of competitors, all with designs on taxpayers' money.

This is not my idea of the way government should work, whether it's in Washington, D.C., or in my own bailiwick.

It burned me up when they lost that space capsule, because it isn't hay the boys are spending on this project and the cost is coming out of our hides. But what really crisped me was to find out that the U.S. Navy couldn't be there with what was needed because it had other things on its mind.

Out here on the taxpaying end, we are totally uninterested in their competitive situation. From out here there's only one contest that matters, besides the contest with the tireless commies — the contest between government and us, which we intend to win because otherwise the outcome of the contest with the commies would be a foregone conclusion. We'd get licked.

A Hancock Viewpoint On Hancock

The following editorial is reprinted from the Aug. 3 edition of the Hancock County Courier, published in New Cumberland:

"An article in a recent issue of a national magazine refers to vice conditions in Youngstown, Ohio. New Ohio laws may force racketeers of that state to move to West Virginia, probably some of them will come into our already overcrowded Hancock County.

"We have concrete proof — such as palatial homes, big Cadillacs — that gambling in our county is a steady profit-making business.

"And it is not uncommon for our county citizens to see our law enforcement officers in a 'huddle' with a top local racketeer, leaving the citizen to wonder — Is this pay day?

"But then, we have been fortunate, in as much as we have had no open friction among our various gambling concerns. And there is a big variety to choose from

The Once Over

With President Kennedy deploring softness and urging tougher men, the recent five-day Siberian exile of a baseball manager for bumping an umpire in heat of a pennant race seems curious. Maybe we need a statement of national policy on bumping.

If there is one thing most Americans are used to, it is getting bumped. The pace is so swift that "freedom of the bump" is generally accepted. Umpires used to expect it and even train for it.

Today, however, the baseball chiefs require that umpires regard a bumping as something that can even be carried to NATO, the U.N. Security Council and Geneva Summits.

Even if the "ump" doesn't mind a bump he is compelled to regard it as warlike as a border-crossing or a general mobilization order.

The baseball manager is Ralph Houk of the Yankees, an ex-marine and decorated war hero, and if such a man can't be excused for hearing bugs, drums and cries of "Over the top!" when he thinks he is losing in enemy action, it's especially odd.

Houk didn't come up in a school that classified a bumping as major aggressiveness and inexcusable violence.

The league series in which the "crime" occurred was so dull the fans welcomed bumping. They even favored the "retaliatory bump" by umpires, and the counter-attack-with-pursuit bump.

The Houk bump was the most exciting event in the game. Modern baseball needs something of the storm and fury once expected between umpires and players.

Most "umps" are well able to take care of themselves and can outbump the players and managers. They don't need bumpers front or rear.

Less indignation over bumpings, please. It's bad for the Washington less-softness-and-more-toughness policy.

Hotels in many cities, including New York, are eliminating lobby and lounge accommodations, once a "must" for guests. We have been surprised to find several big Gotham hotels, where lobbies, once replete with cozy chairs, sofas and other contributions to comfort, have been turned into bare, bleak, quite unfurnished vast open spaces, a cross between railroad stations and skating rinks.

Idea was to get rid of the floaters, non-guests who just killed time, but what about the cash customers who like to sit down now and then?

Mayor Wagner of New York is currently being blamed in scandal over lack of repairs, improvements, etc., in public schools and in other city institutions. Hizzoner doesn't seem to realize that the "follow-up" system, for centuries a natural routine, is needed on all levels today as never before, because of three things: (1) Loss in pride of workmanship; (2) Goldbricking all along the line; (3) Complete failure of foremen, inspectors, supervisors to do their job with old time forcefulness.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

A Word To The Wise

DR. PEALE

At Saranac Lake, New York, there is a bronze statue of a man who sits wrapped in thought, gazing into the distance of the Adirondacks. On its pedestal is inscribed the word "Acquiescence." The statue commemorates a noble man. The inscription is a tribute to the force of an idea embodied in a single word. The man was Edward Livingston Trudeau, a great pioneer in the treatment of tuberculosis. He had contracted the disease himself at an early age, scarcely two years after obtaining his degree as a medical doctor. He was obliged to give up his practice in the city and move to Saranac for his health's sake. There he founded a laboratory for the study of TB and a sanitarium for tubercular patients who could not afford the cost of treatment. He lived and worked at Saranac the rest of his days.

THE WORD "Acquiescence" on the bronze statue stands for the realization which grew upon Trudeau across the years, that some things in life are inevitable and a person must learn to yield to the will of God.

In his autobiography, he wrote of having witnessed at Saranac Lake many instances of "the victory of the spirit over the body," but referred with special admiration to those victories "that demand acquiescence in worldly failure and in the supreme sacrifice of life." What a mighty role a word can play in the shaping of a man's philosophy.

A word spoken and savored mentally can change and dispel a negative condition of the heart or mind. Some psychiatrists even prescribe for certain patients the daily repetition of appropriate health-giving words as part of the therapy for their emotional disturbances.

And I remember reading of how a well-known professor of neuropathology, being personally afflicted with inferiority feelings, developed more self-confidence by pronouncing to himself 25 or 30 times a day the word "invulnerability."

A CERTAIN man with whom I was acquainted used to combat a chronic tendency to acute nervousness by saying over and over various brief phrases from the Bible which to him suggested peace. For example, "the waters of Shiloah." This is a fine example of the power of words to affect states of mind without necessarily having any precise connotation. I myself have visited Biblical Shiloah. It is just a place and the waters there are just waters — no more beautiful or peaceful than dozens of lakes and streams anywhere in the United States.

But the phrase "the waters of Shiloah" has something mellifluous about it, musical, gentle, evocative of peace. Another phrase my friend would repeat at times was "the snows of Hermon." It used to make him quiet inwardly to express peace in that picturesque phrase.

Personally I have three favorite words with which I like to fill my mind. They are: tranquility; urbanity; imperturbability. I have gone all around the country in speeches advocating these favorite words of mine.

And I sincerely believe that a person would profit from standing each morning for two or three minutes at his window quietly saying, "Tranquility — or urbanity — or imperturbability." He would gradually become a person of greater calm and composure. Since a statement is the externalization of a thought, the saying of such words can help develop healthy attitudes.

It is said that we are what we think. It is also true that we become what we say. Think of an excitable, nervous person whom you may know. Isn't he always using nervously excitable words? Consider some calm and controlled acquaintance. What are his words like? They are calm and controlled words, of course. Listen to a person talk for a while and you will have a pretty accurate idea of what he is. The word pattern reveals the thought pattern.

One sound reason for a daily reading of the Bible is that this practice tends to fill your thoughts with strong, healthy words. And if you form the habit, not only of reading these words, but of saying them as well, you will find yourself becoming what the words picture. It's strange, but true, that words make the man.

Crowds Due For Series At Hollow Rock

Sponsors of the 124th annual Hollow Rock camp meeting said large crowds are expected at the first weekend series of services since the 10-day event began Thursday.

The schedule of preachers through Monday includes:

Tonight — 7:30, Dr. J. C. McPheeters, president of Asbury College at Wilmore, Ky.

Sunday — 9 a.m., Dr. John L. Church of Winston-Salem, N. C.; 10:30, Dr. H. Gilbert Williams of Haddonfield, N.J.; 2 p.m., Miss Jamie Bradford of Washington, Pa.; 2:30, Dr. McPheeters, and 7:30, Dr. Church.

Monday — 9 a.m., Dr. Williams; 10:30, Dr. McPheeters; 2 p.m., Miss Bradford; 2:30, Dr. Church, and 7:30, Dr. McPheeters.

The series got into full swing Friday and the attendance was the largest the camp has ever had for its opening meetings.

A young people's chorus of 90 voices sang and Prof. Marvin G. Dean, head of the department of music and fine arts at Taylor University, presented his first "musical package."

It included solos by Charles Sims and Mrs. Helen Jean Smith, and a selection by the chorus, with the director also singing a solo.

Dr. Williams preached his initial sermon, with text from Luke 12:40, "Be ye therefore ready," affirming that Jesus offers pardon from sin's guilt, peace from sin's burden, power over sin's enslavement and purity from sin's pollution.

An effective altar service followed.

Highlights will be Missionary Days Friday and Aug. 13.

Dan Maggianetti, Former City Aide, Waits Ordination

Patrolman Dan Maggianetti of Youngstown, safety-service director in the administration of former Mayor Fred P. Lawrence, will be ordained as a minister of the Christian Church in a ceremony Sunday morning at 11 at the Hillman St. Christian Church in Youngstown.

The service will be conducted by Harry McFadden, minister of the church which Maggianetti has attended for many years.

Maggianetti said he expects to continue to serve on the Youngstown police force at least two years, when he will be eligible for retirement after 25 years' service.

In the interim he will serve as a supply pastor for churches in Columbiana and Mahoning Counties if there is a pulpit vacancy or when the ministers are on vacation or absent for other reasons. The Columbiana County churches include those at East Palestine, Columbiana village and Mineral Ridge.

John Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ here, said an East Liverpool delegation expects to attend the ordination service and a reception for the new minister from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the church.

Mostoller will be unable to attend the ordination, as services are held at the same time at his church, but he expects to attend the reception. Maggianetti attended the local church while residing in East Liverpool.

The Youngstown church is at Hillman and Avondale Sts. The service will be broadcast on WFMJ-Radio at Youngstown.

Maggianetti was named safety-service director in early 1958, shortly after Lawrence assumed office as mayor. He resigned in the spring of 1959 and Joseph Ross was named as his successor.

Maggianetti was a captain on the Youngstown force before coming to East Liverpool. When he returned to the Youngstown force there was a Civil Service dispute, leading to court action, over his entitlement to his old rank and he has remained a patrolman.

While in East Liverpool, the Maggianetti family resided at Park Way and Rubicon St.

Court Income Boosted $670

Turning upward again after two months of decline, overall revenue in Municipal Court hit $4,353 in July, a gain of $670 from the $3,673 shown in June. It was shown today in the monthly report of Clerk Wilbur J. Harmon.

The court turned over $4,079 of its July revenue to the city treasury, an increase of $1,004 from the $3,075 paid out of June income.

The city's share was comprised of $817 in costs from civil cases, $3,200 in fines, costs and forfeitures from criminal actions and $60 from fines in State Highway Patrol cases.

The big jump in revenue from local criminal cases helped account for the gain in the court's revenue. The July figure was up $885 from the $2,315 listed for June.

In addition to the amount paid the city, the court paid $60 to the state treasury as its share of fines in patrol cases; $111 to the county treasury, also from state cases, and $102 to the Law Library Association.

The overall amount handled by the court hit $16,167 last month, up $6,143 from the $10,024 shown in June. The total last month included $8,329 in the civil branch and $7,838 in the criminal branch. In June, the court handled $6,922 in the civil branch and $3,101 in the criminal branch.

A breakdown of cases showed: 71 civil cases filed, 54 disposed of and 178 left pending; 72 city criminal cases filed, 75 disposed of and 44 left pending, and 50 state criminal cases filed, 43 disposed of and 73 left pending.

Electric Heat Rate Due Cut

The Ohio Power Co. Friday, asked the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio for permission to lower the rate charged commercial customers who heat their premises electrically.

The company said at the Canton Headquarters the proposed lower rate would result in savings ranging primarily between 6 per cent and 15 per cent, but as high as 30 per cent for some commercial customers.

The proposed rate change would not affect residential customers, since less than two months ago Ohio Power put into effect a reduced rate for householders whose homes are heated with electricity.

The 137 commercial customers — motels, restaurants, banks, bowling alleys, stores, offices, etc. — which would benefit immediately from the lower rate would save an estimated $15,600 annually.

The rate, if approved by PUCO, would also apply to existing commercial users who convert their heating systems to electricity and to all future commercial electric heating customers of the company.

A. N. Prentice, vice president and general manager, said the firm has never increased commercial or residential rates in its history and if the new rate cut is approved it will make the fourth time since 1930 Ohio Power has voluntarily reduced commercial users' rates.

For Membership Gain

South Side Post Receives Trophy

South Side American Legion Post 952 near Hookstown, which achieved the highest membership in the state in the 50-100 member class, was presented a trophy Friday night, awarded by the Pennsylvania Department.

dent; William Cooper of Route 30, Hookstown, outgoing commander; Virgil Septer of Hookstown, new commander; William Laughlin of Monaca, post member and 26th District deputy, and George Youns of New Brighton, 26th District commander.

The trophy was presented by Laughlin, who received it at the state convention in Erie last month. Laughlin explained the South Side post was one of six in the state which received a membership trophy and the post jumped from 86 members to 156 for the 1960-1961 year—about 177 per cent increase.

New officers of both the auxiliary and the post were installed. About 50 attended and refreshments were served by the auxiliary. Next post meeting is Aug. 9.

It's Roastin' Ear Season

It's sweet corn season. Richard Skinner, marketing agent with the Co-operative Extension Service in Canfield, said that although it is a bit later than usual, harvest of Ohio sweet corn crop is now underway in some parts of the state. And crop prospects are generally good — no great overproduction but a crop of fine quality.

This year's sweet corn season will reach a peak in about 10 days or two weeks. Thus corn will be in most markets in seasonally adequate supply throughout most of the month.

The quality and flavor in sweet corn depend upon sweetness (sugar content) as well as the juiciness and tenderness of the kernel. However, the sugar in sweet corn begins turning to starch shortly after picking. This change takes place more rapidly at higher temperatures.

To maintain its sweetness, much of the corn marketed today is cooled in ice water and packed in ice. This helps maintain the sugar content at a desirable level. The other alternative is using the corn immediately after it is picked. This points out one reason why locally grown corn may be preferable.

Other economical vegetables this week are peppers, summer squash, potatoes, beans, radishes, cabbage, cucumbers and tomatoes. These are all available in the areas retail markets at most reasonable prices.

In addition, roadside markets, some of which are operated by the growers themselves, are another source of seasonally fresh produce.

For fruit shipped in, peaches and bananas are quite economical. Those luscious, tree-ripened locally-grown peaches are about a week away. There should be an adequate supply of this fruit about Aug. 15. Apple season is just getting under way with such varieties as Transparent, Starr, Lodi and Maiden Blush coming to market.

Slides Screened At Lions Meeting

Color slides of scenes in Jerusalem and Jordan were screened by Simon Hall of Dixonville at a meeting of the Lions Club Friday at the Travelers Hotel.

Hall was on a trip to Europe earlier this summer, and commented that he was on the same highway along Lake Lucerne where 16 American tourists were drowned this week in a bus mishap in Switzerland.

Hall is to return Aug. 25 to screen slides on the remainder of his trip. W. F. McWhorter is program chairman.

Plans were discussed for the annual club picnic Aug. 16 at Thompson Park.

Dick VanEerden of Calcutta, a native of the Netherlands, will speak on life in Holland at the club's meeting next Friday.

Plant At Palestine

Has $100 Fire Loss

East PALESTINE — Fire caused some $100 damage to the Adamson Co. plant on E. Clark St. Friday night at 7:30.

Fire Chief Glenn Libert said $25 damage resulted to the building and $75 to contents. The firm manufactures storage and gasoline tanks.

The blaze started in a waste basket near a small saw in the wood shop. It burned a hole in the floor. The heat set off the sprinkler system, which drenched the plant and overflowed into the street.

Twenty-six firemen responded to the call.

At Hyannis Port Meeting

U.N. Strategy Discussed By President, Stevenson

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy and Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson sit down today for a point-by-point review of U.S. strategy in the upcoming General Assembly of the United Nations.

Their conference is expected to last for many hours.

Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will remain overnight as Kennedy's guest at the Cape Cod summer White House.

Also on hand is Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, who flew from the capital with Kennedy late Friday and is spending the week end at nearby Harwichport.

Stevenson gave Kennedy a preliminary report Thursday on his recent trip to Europe, during which he conferred with French President Charles de Gaulle, among others.

While the discussion between Kennedy and Stevenson was billed in advance as dealing with all the problems expected to come before the U.N. General Assembly next month, Germany and divided Berlin presumably will be in for paramount attention.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev told the Western powers Friday he is ready to negotiate a settlement of the future of Germany and Berlin. But he advanced no specific proposals.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said there would be "no comment at this time" on the Soviet note. Hatcher said he doubted there would be any comment over the weekend.

Germany and Berlin, however, had no monopoly in the Kennedy-Stevenson talks.

Problems expected to come before the U.N. assembly cover virtually the whole field of U.S. foreign policy.

They include the Tunisian crisis, how to deal with Red China's bid for admission to the United Nations, and the package deal which would admit both Outer Mongolia and Mauretania.

Vice President Chen Cheng of Nationalist China served notice during his visit to Washington this week that his country is determined to veto both Red China and Mauretania.

Favorites Advance As Play Goes On In Tennis Tourney

Final Action Set Sunday At Courts Here

Favorites came up with victories to advance to the second round of action as the East Liverpool Lions Club's tennis tournament opened Friday at two area courts.

The original field of 36 was slashed to 25 for today's second round at Thompson Park.

Only eight players will still be around for the finals Sunday morning at 10 at the park here. Laurin Stacey, club chairman, said.

A crowd of about 100 saw first-round action at Thompson Park. Part of the first round also was played on courts in Mill Creek Park, Youngstown.

In one of the better matches at Thompson Park in the first round, Dave O'Laughlin, seeded No. 7, defeated Paul Morris, 7-5, 6-3.

Four netters representing East Liverpool bowed out early.

Art Turner was tumbled by S. Vens, 6-0, 6-0; Dick Risinger lost to Yanow, 2-6, 7-5, and 6-1; Colin Neal fell before Young, 6-2, 6-0, and Joe Leigh lost to Salem's Dave Hunter, 6-0, 6-1.

Paul McCullough of Cadiz, formerly of East Liverpool, lost to Fleischer, 6-1, 6-2.

John Garver, seeded No. 2, defeated S. Vens, 6-3, 6-2. Ed Dupay, seeded No. 5, bumped off Salem's Woody Deitch, 6-2, 6-2.

Other winners were R. Vens over Pasaci, 6-6, 6-4, and 6-4; J. Boliver over Custer, 6-2, 6-0; and Bill Barth over Hammer, 6-0, 6-0.

The tourney play today may be seen by area fans until about 6 tonight at the Thompson Park courts.

Eagles' Passes Wreck Stars, 28-14

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, bristling from a greeting of boos from the fans, proved their National Football League championship pride Friday night by harpooning the college all-stars 28-14.

They beat a good collegiate football squad after a pro-like probe of its weakness—pass defense.

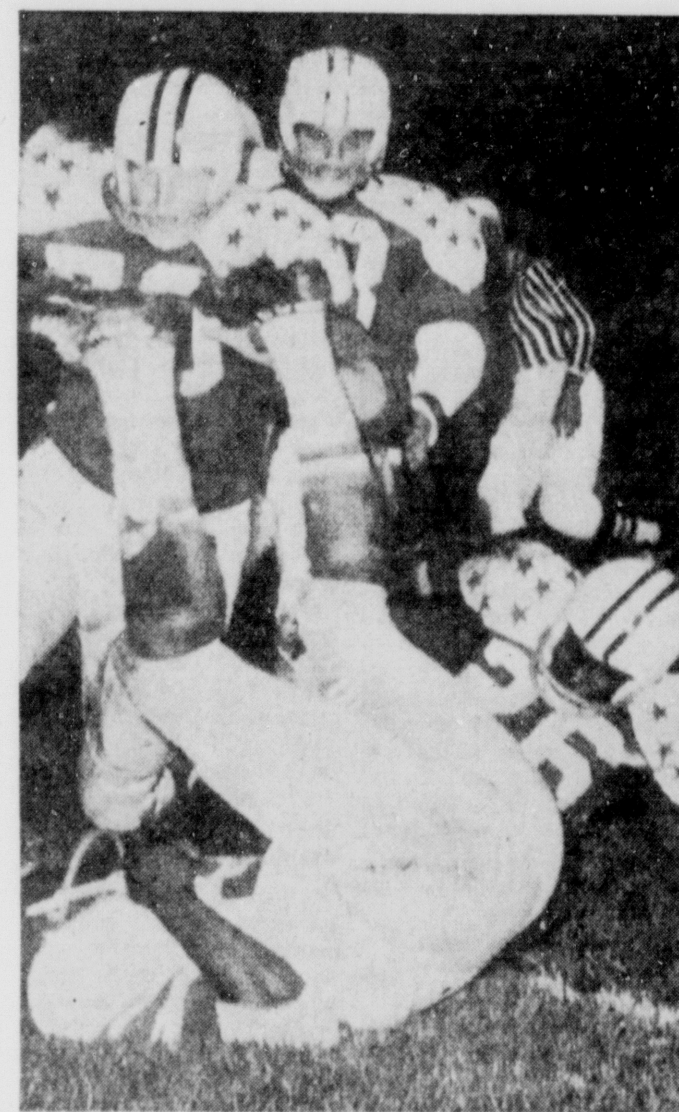

And the Eagles, booed by many of the 65,000 fans as they trotted onto the rain-soaked sod of Soldier Field, showed their detractors they could do it without the golden arm of Norm Van Brocklin—the quarterback who led them to the NFL crown last year, then quit and became coach of the Minnesota Vikings.

The All-Stars suffered a severe stroke of bad luck during warm-ups before the game, televised and broadcast by ABC. Navy's Joe Bellino, a key man in their strategy of attack, slipped while going down for a pass and pulled a right leg muscle. The All-American halfback, who soon begins a four-year stint in the Navy as an ensign, was to have made his last game a big one. He sat it out on the bench.

Bill Brown (Illinois-Chicago Bears) ran back the opening kickoff 39 yards, and Norm Snead (Wake Forest-Washington Redskins) hit Aaron Thomas (Oregon State-San Francisco 49ers) with a 42-yard pass that went to the Eagles' 12.

It looked as if the All-Stars were primed, but they were pushed back to the 17, and the quickie strike was dead.

Minutes later, the Eagles got the ball on their 20. Sonny Jurgensen, Van Brocklin's under-

Pete Retzlaff took it for 13 yards. It touched off an 80-yard drive in seven plays, capped by Jurgensen's 27-yard touchdown pass to Tommy McDonald. He was completely in the open.

McDonald snared two more Jurgensen tosses, each for 24 yards, for touchdowns, and Retzlaff took one for 25 yards.

The Eagles led 21-0 at halftime and made it 28-0 with their fourth td with four minutes left in the game.

Then Bill Kilmer (UCLA-49ers) brought the collegians to life with passes from the short punt, spread formation. In six plays they surged 75 yards. Kilmer capped it with an 18-yard scoring pitch to Glynn Gregory (SMU-Dallas Cowboys).

Then guard Dick Greeni (Ohio U-Cleveland Browns) intercepted a King Hill pass and lumbered 57 yards for a touchdown.

"Had we scored on that first play, we'd have had them on the run," said All-Star Head Coach Otto Graham. "I'd like to play them again—and on a dry field I think we'd beat them."

Coach Nick Skorich said: "Our guys were concerned about being somewhat downgraded while the stars were being touted, and we went out to justify our championship."

Needed A Dry Field, Otto Graham Says

CHICAGO (AP) — "I'd like to turn around and play these guys again tomorrow night," said All-Star Coach Otto Graham, "and on a dry field I think we'd beat 'em."

Graham's remarks were made in the hot and steamy college All-Star dressing room after the Philadelphia Eagles had whacked the stars, 28-14 Friday night in Soldier Field.

"Had we scored on that first play, we'd have had them on the run," continued Graham, "and even then don't think those guys were relaxing out there."

The condition of the field, wet and soggy because of an early evening rain, cost the stars dearly in the services of All-American halfback Joe Bellino of Navy. Bellino, going down for a pass in pre-game drills, slipped and pulled a leg muscle.

Yanks Win In 10th

Lary Tops Tribe For 15th Victory

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the first time in his major league career, Frank Lary is proving that he is more than just a "Yankee killer."

Until this year, the gritty right-hander was just a .500 pitcher in six seasons with the Detroit Tigers—when you exclude his 23-8 won and lost mark against the Yankees. In fact, the other American League teams beat him more than he beat them.

It's different this year. The Alabamian, now 30, Friday night registered his 15th triumph of the season, pitching the Tigers to a 6-1 victory over Cleveland. Lary's seven-hitter kept the Tigers within a game and a half of the Yankees, who needed 10 innings to defeat Minnesota 8-5.

Baltimore divided a double-header with Los Angeles, winning the second game 3-0 after the Angels had taken the opener 3-1. Kansas City blanked Boston 5-0. The White Sox and Washington were idle.

Lary already has beaten every team in the league except the Senators, whom he has faced only once, Minnesota, with two victories in three decisions, is the only other team to hold an edge over him. Two Cleveland hits and an infield out in the third inning produced a run and prevented Lary from making his third straight triumph over the Indians a shut-out.

Lary got solid hitting support from Al Kaline, Jake Wood and Billy Bruton. Kaline slammed his 14th home run with a man aboard in the third to snap a 1-1 tie. Wood had three hits including his eighth home run. Bruton had a couple of singles and scored twice.

Johnny Blanchard's home run with two out and two on in the 10th won for the Yankees. A mental lapse by Minnesota second baseman Ted Lepcio preceded Blanchard's game-winning blow. With two out in the 10th, relief pitcher Bill Pleis walked Mickey Mantle, and Yogi Berra followed with a single. Mantle was trapped between second and third, but Lepcio held the ball long enough for Mickey to dart to third base. Blanchard, given a chance to bat, broke up the game.

Norm Bass, Kansas City rookie, shut out the Red Sox with four hits for his fifth triumph. Norm Siebern's seventh inning homer off loser Bill Monbouquette was all the young right-hander needed.

Jack Fisher hurled a five-hitter at the Angels in retaliation for a three-hitter pitched against the Orioles in the first game by Los Angeles left-hander Ted Bowsfield.

Dave Philley drove in one of Baltimore's runs in the nightcap with a pinch double. It was his 20th safety as a pinch hitter, tying the league record set by Ed Coleman of the St. Louis Browns in 1936. Sam Leslie of the 1932 New York Giants holds the major league mark of 22.

Playoff Set In Wellsville Minor League

Heiney's will meet Boley's in the Wellsville Minor League Monday as part of a playoff for the first half championship.

The winner of the Heiney-Boley's contest faces Central Federal for the first half title on Friday. The Wellsville Minor League will sponsor the players to a baseball game at Cleveland on Aug. 13 between Los Angeles and Cleveland. All players are requested to meet at Daw Junior High School at 8 p. m. Players must be in uniform.

The League also made plans for a wiener roast Aug. 19 at Hammond Park. Those attending should supply their own refreshments.

Boyce, Second Church Win In Softball Play

Boyce Methodist scored an upset win and Second Church of Christ won by a five-run margin in YMCA Church Softball League games Friday.

Boyce victimized First Free Methodist, 9-4, in the first loss of the season for the latter.

Bill Schoolcraft was the winning pitcher, defeating John Clendenning, Bob Swogger, Al Dawson, Ralph Stanley, with two hits each, and Chuck Windle and Jim Zubick with one each paced the Boyce attack.

Pease, Cunningham and B. Wolfe hit safety for the losers.

Larry Morris pitched Second Church of Christ to an 8-3 victory over Penn Ave. Methodist, defeating his brother, Bill Morris in a pitching duel.

Larry Guy pounded out four base hits to spark St. John's Lutheran to an 11-6 victory over St. Ann. H. Hood, B. Cunningham and G. Jones each belted three hits for the winners.

Little Kanawha Game Won By North, 13-6

PARKERSBURG — The South still held an over-all 7-6 edge in the L-K Bowl football series today, but the North could count four straight victories after last night's 13-6 conquest before about 6,000 fans.

Reds Nose Out Bucs

Spahn Sparkles, Braves Win, 3-2

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wonderful Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's splendid southpaw, needs only one more victory to become the seventh pitcher in modern times to record 300 major league triumphs.

The 41-year-old Oklahoman registered his 11th victory of the season Friday night and 299th with the Braves, outpitching San Francisco's Mike McCormick 3-2. Outfielder Henry Aaron made the victory possible with a pair of home runs, the first tying the score in the seventh inning and the second breaking the tie in the ninth.

Cincinnati's Reds, pacing the league, opened a two-game lead over Los Angeles, defeating Pittsburgh 5-4. The Dodgers dropped a 4-2 decision to the Chicago Cubs. St. Louis outlasted the Philadelphia Phillies 9-8.

Spahn yielded only five hits for his fourth victory in five starts against the Giants this season. Milwaukee now trails the third place Giants by only one game.

Aaron's homers were his 28th and 29th of the season.

Frank Robinson, the league's leading home run and RBI man, drove in Cincinnati's winning run with a ninth-inning double.

The Pirates had taken a 4-2 lead in the eighth, climaxed by Dick Stuart's 17th home run. The Reds came back with four straight singles to tie the score.

George Altman slammed two homers—his 21st and 22nd—and drove in three runs to lead the Cubs to victory over the Dodgers.

Sandy Koufax was the Dodger starter and loser.

Julian Javier and Jim Schaffer hit two-run doubles to lead the Cards' 12-hit attack against four Philadelphia pitchers. The decisive run, however, was driven in by Stan Musial, who drew a walk as a pinch hitter with the bases loaded in the seventh.

Fullmer 9-5 Favorite To Retain Crown

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Utah's Gene Fullmer, the crowding, bruising middleweight champion of NBA, and Cuba's Florentino Fernandez, a one-punch knockout artist, fight for the title tonight in a match that should make up in action what it might lack in finesse.

The nationally televised battle (ABC network) goes on in Ogden's 22,000-capacity stadium at 10 (East Liverpool time) with the local area blacked out.

Fullmer, 30, the champion from West Jordan, remained the favorite at odds of about 9-5, which may narrow by the time the two climb into the ring.

Neither was expected to have any problem making the 160-pound limit at weigh-in time.

This marks the sixth time the slugging young Mormon deacon has defended the title he won from a battered Carmen Basilio in August, 1959.

Mgr. Marv Jensen pronounced Fullmer at the "peak of his career" and promised there would be no excuses if Gene lost!

For Fernandez, 25, who goes into the bout with a string of three straight knockouts since growing into the middleweight division last November, this will be his first chance at a world championship.

His Havana manager, Eugenio Ruiz, and American representative, Angelo Dundee, were equally confident of an upset victory.

In addition to the National Boxing Association portion of the world title, there is the question — particularly on Fullmer's part — of national pride and prestige.

The Fullmer faction made the Cubans sign an agreement to give Gene a return match within 90 days if he loses; but more important, the agreement stipulates that Fernandez must remain in this country during the 90 days.

Man Gets 3rd Prison Term

A 26-year-old Newell man will be taken from Mahoning County Jail at Youngstown to Ohio Penitentiary next week to begin serving three concurrent sentences, two imposed in Columbiana County on forgery charges and another meted out in Mahoning Court on a burglary charge.

Ralph E. Heath, 26, of 6th St. was given two concurrent terms of 1-20 years Tuesday by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon and then released to Mahoning County, where Common Pleas Judge John W. Ford gave him a 1-15-year concurrent term Wednesday on a burglary charge.

In the Lisbon Court, Heath was charged with passing a fraudulent $81 check at the Baker Chevrolet Co. in Hanover and a phony check for $131 at the Pottery Bank & Trust Co. in East Liverpool.

The checks were on the North Lima Trucking Co. Authorities said Heath took the checks in an earlier burglary of the Mahoning County concern. It was for the North Lima burglary, which took place July 9, 1959, that he was sentenced in Mahoning County.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies have a hold awaiting Heath when he gets out of prison, charging him with burglarizing a bakery firm in the county.

Mahoning County authorities said Heath's FBI record goes back to 1953. He spent two years in the federal reformatory at Chillicothe for auto theft in 1953, they said.

Council Waits Bill For Boost In Taxi Fares

Council is scheduled to act Monday night on an ordinance authorizing an increase in East Liverpool taxi fares from 35 to 50 cents for the first half mile, but leaving the balance of the rates unchanged.

It's one of three new ordinances and resolutions scheduled for presentation at the first August meeting.

The fare hike was requested at the July 7 session by Robert J. Freed, operator of the Veterans Cab Co., the city's only taxi concern. He said he is in favor of continuing the balance of the present rate unchanged at 10 cents for each additional mile. The increase would mean a raise from 35 cents to 70 cents a mile for taxi rides, Freed explained.

In his appearance before Council, Freed said there has been a steady rise in his operating costs, but fares have not been boosted for more than 10 years. An increase in fares also will mean a higher return for drivers, who are paid a 40 per cent commission, he added.

Council also will consider legislation to cut 15 feet off the width of Martin St. from Etruria St. to Fayette Alley. Owners of abutting property presented a petition for narrowing of the half a block stretch several months ago.

Action also is scheduled on a resolution amending legislation which Council enacted July 17 authorizing the administration to apply for a federal loan to finance planning of the second stage of the second stage would terminate at the Chester Bridge. The amended legislation will correct the original to fix the east end of the project near Mulberry St. The second stage will begin at W. 3rd and Monroe Sts., where the phase now under construction will end.

Mrs. John Garey, 513 E. 6th St., is chairman of a delegation scheduled to meet with Council in caucus at 7 p. m. to request enactment of legislation requiring proper venting of gas space heaters and hot water tanks.

Mrs. Garey said the request was prompted by the July 5 deaths of an Elm St. father and son. The father, 76, and the son, 46, were found dead in their apartment.

Dr. Roy C. Costello, deputy county coroner, attributed the deaths to a combination of natural gas and carbon monoxide fumes. He said the fumes came from an open jet on a radiant heater in a nearby vacant apartment and two unvented hot water heaters.

Council studied the need for legislation at its session July 7, but no definite action was taken.

Mrs. Garey said she hopes other persons who see the need of the legislation will appear at the caucus session.

"I feel a tragedy like this should awaken the citizens to the need for regulations," she said. She said she already has discussed the problem with Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, Safety - Service Director Lee Copenhaver and Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper.

A NATIONAL TRAGEDY—
OUR WOMEN
ALCOHOLICS

Salem refreshes your taste —“air-softens” every puff

- menthol fresh
- rich tobacco taste
- modern filter, too

Take a puff... it's Springtime! There's a lift in the sound of the stream and a lift to your spirits, and springtime's freshness is everywhere. In the smoke of a Salem, you'll find the same kind of soft, springtime freshness. High Porosity paper "air-softens" every puff . . . and fine tobaccos make every puff rich-tasting, too. Smoke refreshed . . . smoke Salem!

A National Tragedy:

OUR WOMEN ALCOHOLICS

Why do some wives and mothers turn to the bottle to solve their problems? Can we help them and the generations they will influence?

By MARVIN A. BLOCK, M. D. as told to Howard Earle

Chairman, Committee on Alcoholism, American Medical Association

PHOTOGRAPH BY VICTOR ORSATZ

A YOUNG MAN, James D., came to me recently seeking counsel on a drinking problem—not his, though, but his wife's.

His business, he said, frequently took him away from home for five-day periods. "Occasionally while I am on a trip," James explained, "my wife puts our two pre-teen children in the car and drives 50 miles to a motel where she goes on an overnight drinking binge. I suspect she drinks around the house, too, while I'm away."

Another woman, Eleanor, would walk out on her husband and three teen-age children a couple of evenings a week, take a taxi to a tavern, and drink until past midnight. She also tumbled sometimes during the day.

These are not isolated cases. They have their counterparts multiplied hundreds of times throughout the country. Many of these women are drifting into alcoholism. Some are established addicts. And make no mistake about it—an alcoholic is a drug addict, and the drug is alcohol.

Many more alcoholics are known to exist today among women than we knew about a few years ago. Some clinics report that, among our more than 5 million known alcoholics, women trail men one to four. I find in my practice, however, that it's about 50-50. Most private physicians I meet, as chairman of the American Medical Association's committee on alcoholism, find the same ratio.

But that's not the whole story. Our over-all count of alcoholics may be low because we don't know how many women addicts are in hiding. Many women drink behind the drawn shades of their homes, and their families keep it a well-guarded secret.

Women, like men, give as many reasons for drinking as there are human emotions and personal relationships. Blamed are unhappy home lives, disappointment in mates and love, financial difficulties, business conflicts, loneliness, boredom, and the many emotional tensions from which there seems no release.

These are blamed for the drift to alcoholism. But the drift can be reversed. The initial step is to detect the drinker and help her before addiction is established. Danger signals are drinking alone, the need for a drink at a definite time each day, frequent drinking sprees, drinking the first thing in the morning, neglect of duties and responsibilities because of drinking, and blackouts.

ONCE A WOMAN with a drinking problem is detected, the next step is to help her cope with the problem causing the drinking. James D's wife drank because she dreaded his long periods away from home. He changed positions within the same company and eliminated traveling. That removed her problem, and she stopped drinking.

Eleanor drank because her husband failed to receive a promotion and pay increase she had told all her friends about. In her embarrassment, she sought escape in alcohol. For her, the road was a long one of counseling to convince her that this type of failure was no stigma on either her or her husband.

The solution to alcoholism may not necessarily lie in the successful treatment of involved patients but rather in the prevention of the disease in future generations. Alcoholism is a serious disease and a progressive one. To halt it in our society, we must:

1. Educate the public to the fact that drunkenness in any form is not laughable.
2. Stop encouraging our friends to drink, as though it were completely harmless.
3. Destroy the impression that the ability to handle liquor is a sign of feminine charm in women and manliness in men.
4. Teach children the potential dangers of alcohol.
5. Teach children and grownups that one does not succeed every time but must compromise according to one's limitations.

In this way, we can teach our young folks, and some grownups, to meet many of the problems and emotional upheavals which lead to alcoholism.

When we institute this type of education, we will have taken a long step toward meeting the growing menace of alcoholism among our women—and among men, too.

CASE OF THE Slain Postal Agents

Police alerted an entire city to the killers—but it was an alert with a deceptive purpose

Ordered out of their car, the bandits were lined up and frisked by the postal agent.

By WILLIAM T. BRANNON

ALTHOUGH A DOZEN persons witnessed the shooting at a busy intersection in Chicago, they were too stunned to try to stop the three men who escaped. Later, from the accounts of the witnesses and from the evidence, postal inspectors and detectives pieced together what had happened:

John McAuliffe and Ben Spizzirri, both postal agents, had spotted three men as they stole two bags of mail from a railway platform and got into a car. The agents stopped the men, lined them up, and frisked them. The thieves were then ordered into the back of the agents' car, with McAuliffe at the wheel, while Spizzirri went to move the thieves' car around the corner from the intersection, where it was blocking traffic. But he couldn't get it started.

One of the captives volunteered to help. He reached under the steering wheel and did something; the car started and was driven around the corner, where Spizzirri left it. Then he joined the other agent. The man who had gone to help apparently had palmed a gun he had hidden under the dashboard. He opened fire, killing both agents.

Witnesses agreed that the getaway car was a dark green 1951 Chevrolet, with its rear painted blue. One woman remembered the first three numerals of the license number.

In a notebook kept by the agents, detectives found a dozen license numbers. One contained the three numerals remembered by the witness: there was no doubt this was the car driven by the killers. It had been registered in the name of G. Wilson at a South Side address. The address was phoney.

In a pocket of Spizzirri's trousers, inspectors found two keys tied with string. One obviously was for a car. The other was marked "Gas." Inspectors traced the car and found the original owner, who identified the keys, one for the ignition, one for the gas tank. He had painted the rear blue to make it look like an Oldsmobile and later sold it.

The dealer told the inspectors he had sold it to two men who gave the names William Perkins and George Wilson. They had given the same fictitious South Side address.

There seemed no doubt that Perkins and Wilson were two of the killers, but just how were they to be found?

Police files yielded records of both men. With a third man, Alan Golson, they had been picked up on suspicion of narcotics addiction only a few hours after the postal agents were slain. They hadn't been in a car then, and all three were released the next day.

"We've got to find them," said Inspector-in-Charge Jerome Williamson, "and I have an idea." He told it to Detective Chief James McMahon, who called a press conference.

"We need the public's help," McMahon told the reporters. "Any information, no matter how insignificant, might help. We're especially anxious to locate the car the killers escaped in. This much we know—the license number was 941,601."

This was published in the next editions of all Chicago papers. Soon telephone calls flooded police headquarters.

Then 50 sets of the car keys were made and distributed to 50 teams of investigators. They fanned out southward from the murder scene and began a car-to-car search.

FINALLY, just 96 hours after the agents had been slain, the car was found. Its license plates bore the number that had been written in the agents' notebook. The blue paint job on the rear hadn't been altered. The keys still worked.

The car was surrounded, and when Perkins and Wilson appeared, they were arrested. Wilson admitted he had obtained and hidden the gun when he had gone to help Spizzirri start the car. When both agents were seated in the front of their own car, he shot them. He said the three men needed money for narcotics, and they hoped the mail sacks would contain valuables. He named Golson, who was picked up and confessed also.

All three were convicted of the two murders and were sentenced to 199 years in the Illinois State Penitentiary.

One phase of the investigation was a closely guarded secret, known only to the investigators and the editors of Chicago newspapers. The license number, 941,601, was widely publicized. There was no doubt that the killers read it many times. But it was the wrong number, and they were deceived.

The correct license number, 541,628, was still on the car when the investigators found it.

Quips and Quotes

A woman phoned her neighbor several times during the afternoon, only to get a busy signal. Finally she asked the operator to check if there was anything wrong with the number she was calling.

"I'm sorry, madam," the operator informed her, "but the number you are calling is really busy."

"But it can't be, operator," the woman replied. "Why, I'm the only one still on speaking terms with her!"

The family's favorite aunt came to visit, and six-year-old Betty immediately engaged her in conversation. "And yesterday," the child said, detailing her week's activities, "I went to the dentist!"

"And were you a brave girl?" the aunt asked concernedly.

"Oh, yes," Betty replied.

"Well, here's a dollar for being so brave," the aunt said, reaching into her purse. "And what did the dentist do?"

"He pulled two of little Willie's teeth," Betty said.

"Am I right in assuming you'll be gone all day?"

A happily married man met an old friend and learned he was still a bachelor. He wanted to know why.

"Every time I take a girl home to meet the folks, my mother doesn't like her," the bachelor explained.

"Well, that's easily solved," the happy husband replied. "Find a girl just like your mother and bring her home."

A few months later, the two met again, and the married man asked if the bachelor had taken his advice.

"Yes," the latter replied, "I found a girl who was like my mother in every way, and my mother loved her."

"And you're marrying her?"

"No, my father hated the girl!"

THE HOME-TOWN newspaper of soft-spoken, hard-working Dean Rusk went out on a limb last December. It predicted that Citizen Rusk, town committeeman, Presbyterian layman, commuter, and chief executive of the Rockefeller Foundation, would not leave his white-shuttered brick residence in Scarsdale, N. Y., to become President Kennedy's Secretary of State.

But a few days later, the 51-year-old Southerner had been offered the nation's No. 3 job and had accepted. How it came to pass is a story that has never been fully told.

The precepts learned by Rusk during his boyhood have something to do with it. His brother Roger, who teaches physics at the University of Tennessee, recalls the advice of their parents:

"We were under constant admonition to excel, to go out in the world and do something. 'Be different, do your best,' they told us. We were always striving for excellence."

Excellence is a quality long connected with Dean Rusk. A close friend says, "He has a mind that operates twice as fast as normal."

His resources will be tested often during the coming years. As he wrestles with our adversaries, he surely will face Nikita Khrushchev from time to time with a terrible need for all the strength to be drawn from his American roots.

Fortunately, the Rusk roots go deep. By Russian standards, he was born a peasant—on the red soil of Cherokee county in Georgia. His painful delivery—he weighed 11 pounds—was eased by a veterinarian instead of a physician. His father, a part-time cotton farmer and Presbyterian preacher, later became a teacher and a postal employee.

When Dean was four, the family moved to a frame house in Atlanta, settling down on "the wrong side of the tracks." In those days, he wore underwear made of flour sacks and helped gather coal from the nearby railway right-of-way.

His Career Began in the Army

Rusk's rise from anonymity to prominence began during World War II. As a fire-breathing infantry captain of the Third Division, he anticipated a field command, but a card-chewing IBM machine blocked his path. Looking for an officer with some knowledge of the British Empire, the monster spit out Rusk's name because he had gone to Oxford University. He was promptly installed in Army Intelligence, British Empire section. Later, he joined the staff of "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell, commanding general of the Allied effort in China, Burma, and India.

During Rusk's assignment there, Gen. George C. Marshall noted the crisp products of his mind. Cabinet member Robert Lovett noted his work day of 15 hours—seven days a week.

The two men maneuvered him briskly up the ladder. Trading his uniform for the striped pants of diplomacy, he became chief of Internal Security Affairs at the State Department, returned to the War Department as the Secretary's special assistant, rejoined State to head its Office of Special Political Affairs, next took charge of United Nations Affairs, and finally rose to the Department's No. 3 post, Deputy Under Secretary.

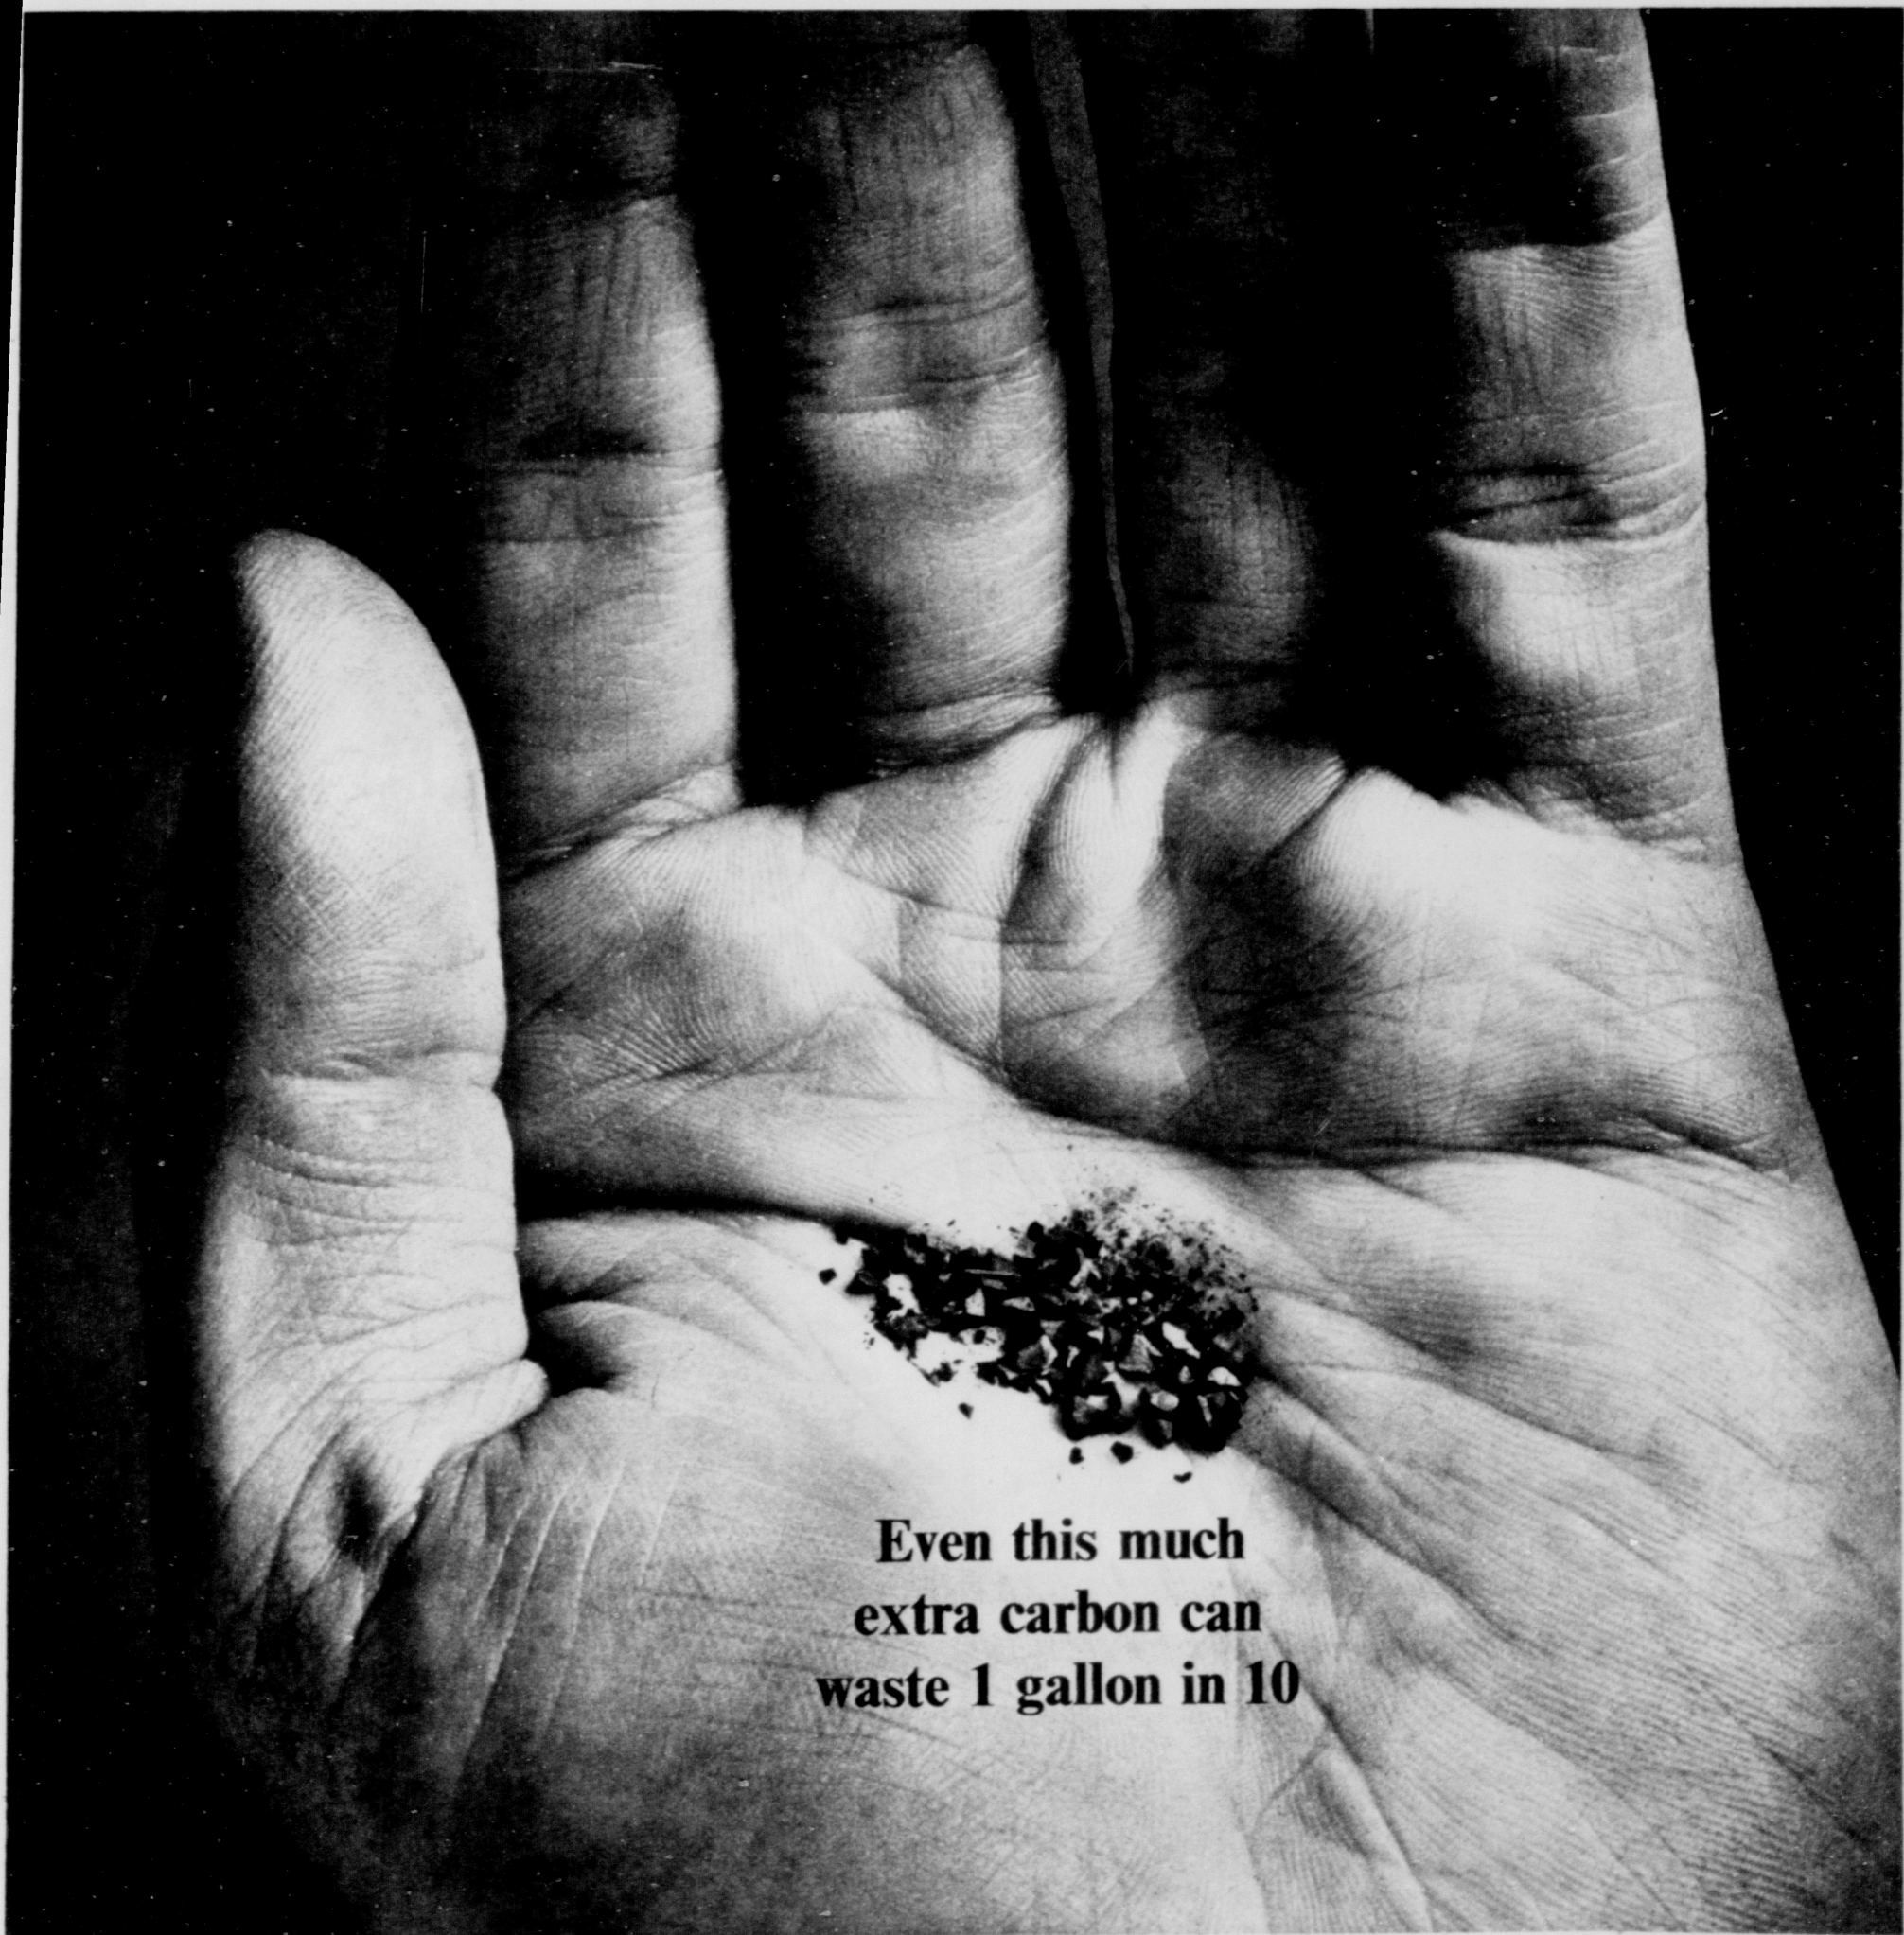

The work was challenging and stretched Rusk's talents. He and his wife and three children had a small apartment across the Potomac. They couldn't afford Washington's social whirl. One day,

Even this much extra carbon can waste 1 gallon in 10

Carbon costs you money. A tiny bit extra on a vital engine part can waste a tenth of the gasoline you buy, cost you 50 cents or more every time you fill up. Why is this so?

Carbon hurts your engine. It increases roughness. Fouls spark plugs. Runs up repair bills.

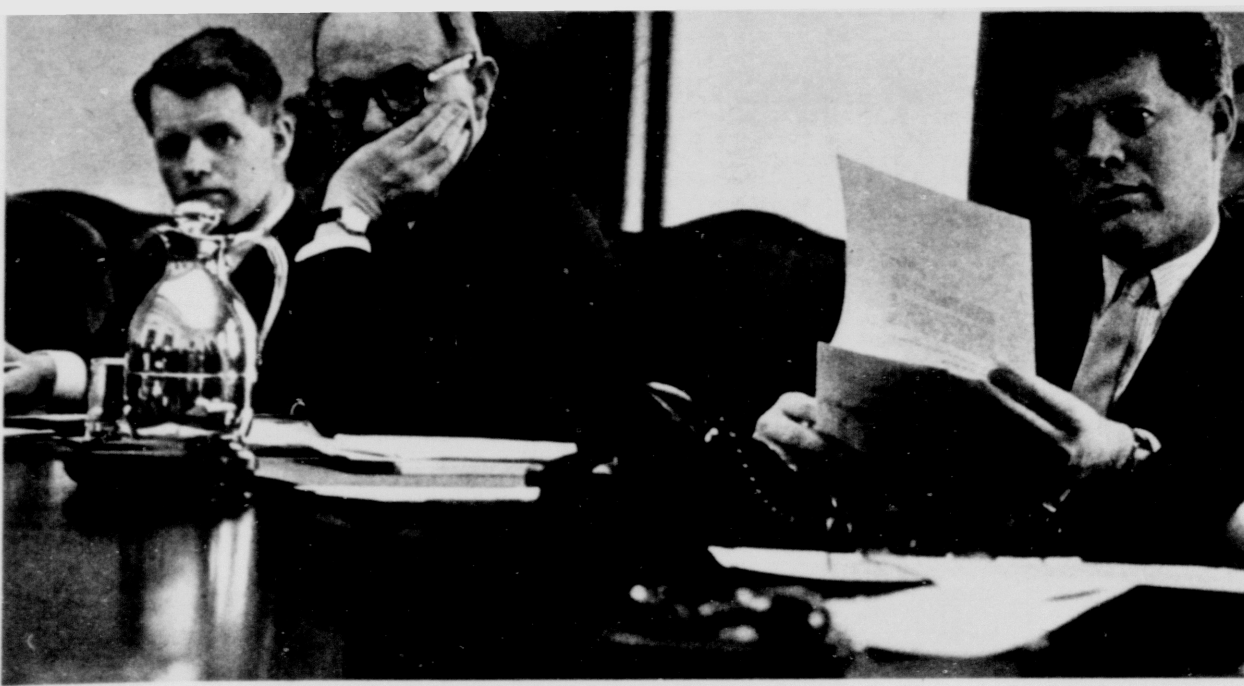

Gulf gasolines control carbon. Gulf's exclusive refinery processes refine out dirty-burning, deposit-forming elements.

Result: cleaner-burning performance, faster pick-up, fewer repairs. Just try Gulf. You'll like the driving. You'll like the saving, too.

Flanked by Attorney General Robert Kennedy and the President, Rusk looks thoughtful at cabinet meeting.

For the first time,
he and his family were on the way to riches — then came an unexpected call from the President and a postponement
of personal ambition

Rusk holds a late evening conference in his office with Presidential advisor Arthur Schlesinger, Jr.

PHOTOGRAPHS BY JACQUES LOWE

Rusk startled his wife Virginia with this query: "How would you like to move to New York?"

He had been offered the presidency of the rich and mighty Rockefeller Foundation at a princely salary. Lovett, a Rockefeller board member, had recommended him. Another friend, John Foster Dulles, had seconded the nomination.

Rusk had worked with Dulles on the Japanese peace treaty, and then arranged an additional agreement for stationing U. S. forces in Japan. He had helped to establish the state of Israel and had stood beside President Truman during his famous confrontation with Gen. Douglas MacArthur on Wake Island during the Korean War.

But these were merely preludes, it turned out, to events which few contemporaries could match. During the next eight years, he gave away $247 million of Rockefeller money "to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

The maturing of the Rusk family took place in Scarsdale, where they moved in 1952. The process involved such suburban experiences as the repair of an old house of no prestige or status-symbol value whatever, and of fighting crab grass with the help of two reluctant sons.

Rusk became program chairman of the junior-high PTA and chairman of a special committee for education and for the school budget. His reports, still filed at the Town Hall, are models of clarity and helped raise the salaries of local teachers to the highest rate in the nation. He even chaired the underdog Democratic campaign committee—and led it to a whopping defeat in heavily Republican Scarsdale last November!

How to Become a Secretary

But mostly, Rusk read, wrote, and lectured—leaving a trail of ideas that was to be sniffed in 1960 by John F. Kennedy as he hunted for prospective cabinet officers. A backstage whisper by old-friend Lovett shattered this idyllic existence when Kennedy asked Lovett to suggest a good man for Secretary of State. Lovett nominated Rusk.

Working day and night, a Kennedy aide collected every Rusk speech and essay. The President-elect studied the papers at page-eating speed, finding things he liked.

"Foreign Affairs Magazine" had printed one of Rusk's more critical lectures, in which he said: "Summit diplomacy is to be approached with the wariness with which a prudent physician prescribes a habit-forming drug."

Of the attitude needed to win the cold war: "I recall from early childhood the admonition of the circuit preacher: pray as if it were up to God; work as if it were up to you."

Of the President's awesome responsibility: "After all the advice is in, he must ascend his lonely pinnacle and decide what we must do. There are such moments when the whole world holds its breath and our fate is in his hands."

When JFK had read everything down to the last semicolon, he summoned Rusk to Georgetown. Following that first visit, the Scarsdale paper published its erroneous prediction. Mrs. Rusk explained later: "We told the paper we weren't considering accepting the secretaryship because Dean didn't dream it would be offered. He thought the President-elect wanted him as a consultant."

The Administration soon corrected that impression and Rusk faced a dilemma: he was not

The Glued Ruler

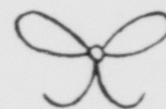

By Maude E. Hallmer

Here is quite a mystifying trick. Place a ruler on the table so that half of it extends over the edge. If you tip the end of the ruler with one finger, it will fall over, but if you place an open newspaper, face down, over that part of the ruler which rests on the table, you can strike the projecting part of the ruler with your hand or even a hammer, and it will not fall.

Explanation: The ruler is held to the table by the suction of the newspaper to the table, caused by the air current that was made by the blow.

Dean Rusk's wife joins him on an official trip abroad.

wealthy, his children were still to be educated, Washington living expenses were high. As a Cabinet member, he would draw less than half of his Rockefeller Foundation salary.

Yet when he was invited to become Secretary of State, he accepted almost immediately. "I thought about it some on the way down," he told a friend. "In these times, no American has a right to refuse whatever the President asks."

Today, as chief executive of the State Department, he directs 5,000 employees in Washington plus scores of embassies and consulates around the world. The task is appalling, since each foreign staff includes representatives of almost every Washington agency.

He sets policy for the U.S. Information Service, the International Cooperation Administration, the Peace Corps, and other Federal units working abroad. He greets every important visitor, and a visiting head of state of another government gets the full treatment. The recent visit of President Bourguiba of Tunisia was typical. On his initial night in the United States, he was entertained by Dean Rusk at a dinner served in the magnificent dining room of the new State Building. At the hour set for guests to arrive, Rusk was still at his desk. His secretary reminded him of the time.

He hurried into his adjacent private quarters which consist of sitting and dressing rooms, bath, and kitchen. After a quick shower, he rode up one flight in his private elevator and greeted President Bourguiba in a private reception room.

In the State reception and dining rooms, filled with hundreds of guests, Rusk moved in a world of gold and crystal, rugs an inch thick, Chippendale and Hepplewhite furnishings, and $40,000 worth of French chandeliers donated by Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

After dinner, he led the visiting head of state to a broad balcony for a look at Washington's famous landmarks.

Meantime, problems cried out for his attention: Laos, Cuba, disarmament, the space race, the cold war.

Not to be forgotten was the speech he must make at a university, and another at a meeting of scientists, and always another and another.

Not to be forgotten, either, were his wife (who also attends receptions at which a Rusk appearance is required) and his children, who continue to need a father no matter what the world's convulsions.

Endless dilemmas have been known to drive men of great power to rash action. Close observers of Dean Rusk report no telltale symptoms. He was among those who disapproved of the Cuban invasion but who supported the President through the entire debacle. Powerful tranquilizers for the rasping pressures of his office are his ability to reduce complications to simplicities and his sense of humor. "A respect for complexity is the beginning of wisdom," he says.

He also believes that successful diplomacy can come only when there is a capacity for action. He was in college when he first wrote, "The eagle on the Great Seal of the United States has two claws. One holds an olive branch, the other holds arrows." That remark turned up again last January in President Kennedy's inaugural address.

And today Dean Rusk, as Secretary of State, is the Constitutional custodian of that Great Seal.

His Sixth Sense Is Humor

Before leaving Scarsdale, the Rusks attended a farewell reception. He shook hands for hours with hundreds of townsmen. Finally, he gulped a cup of coffee and rose for a brief speech. It was a serious moment, and he spoke of turbulent seas ahead, making his points with small jabs of his brown horn-rimmed glasses—and upset his coffee in the process. Then, up bubbled the Rusk sense of humor.

"Our affairs have finally come full circle," he said. "This same schoolhouse introduced us to many of you when we first came to town."

"On that occasion, I remember, Mrs. Rusk managed to spill coffee all over her dress. On this occasion, as we take our leave, I have managed to spill coffee all over my suit."

Moments later, Dean Rusk was en route to his most difficult assignment—covered with glory and coffee stains.

I was just thinking...

FORGIVE ME for knocking on your door. You see, my family built this cottage, and I haven't been here for 18 years.

Why, thank you. I'd love to see the inside again, if you don't mind. It's changed so that I hardly recognize it. We had only one room with a porch on each end. My parents had a bed right here with a mattress full of lumps. We never minded the lumps, though. Under the pines with the breeze sighing in them, we all slept like children.

Here's where I had my old army cot. It was like lying in a trough. When Grandfather tried to smoke out the wasps under the eaves and set the cottage on fire, Father had the flames out before I could get out of the cot.

We used to laugh about that a lot...

I see you have indoor plumbing. We had a pump in the kitchen and a little building out back. The wasps nested there, too.

The steps down to the lake look new. I suppose our old steps wouldn't have lasted this long. But my birches are there, just a little larger than when I had my picture taken by them that last summer. That was the Gordons' cottage next door and the Wilsons' on the other side. I didn't remember they were so close and so small. It's strange. Even the big lake looks smaller. I thought it was the biggest lake in the world...

On rainy days we bought cheap candy at the old store down at the fork. And Western magazines. Then Father and Grandfather played endless games of checkers and fought over the score.

Mother always said it seemed that she and Grandmother cooked all day long every summer. We were always hungry. On cold mornings when we had to light a fire in the kerosene stove, we had johnnycake and bacon. Nights after fish suppers we sat around the lamp and listened to the loons crying. It wasn't lonely, though; we were all here together.

I remember the bubble of excitement that exploded in me the mornings we arrived and the mist shrouding the lake the mornings we left. Isn't it strange that I didn't recognize it at first or remember the road? I had to expect that it would all change.

You've been so kind to let me come into the cottage again.

But now I realize that all these years I have been seeing it better with my eyes closed.
